TURKS PRESSED HARD BY ENEMY

Bulgars Occupy Heights Near Kirk Kilesseh.

SULTAN'S TROOPS ARE DRIVEN BACK

To Second Base of Operations in Bloody Fight.

eroplanes Are Brought into Use by the Attacking Force and Sketch of Turk Fortifications Is Made—More Dependence Put in Dispatches from Sofia—Constantinople Reports Believed To Be Colored.

Sofia, Oct 24.—Kirk Kilesseh, the outpost of the fortifications of Adrianople, has been captured by the Bulgarians, after a terrific five-day battle, with heavy loss of life on both the Turkish and Bulgarian sides.

This news was received here this afternoon, in a dispatch from the commander of the Bulgarian army at the front

The capture of Adrianople is the next objective of the Bulgarians

Fighting Continues.

Vienna Oct 24.—This is the fifth day of the fighting around the Turkish city of Adrianople, which will likely decide the Balkan war. Although the Bulgarian army has occupied the heights of Tirnovo and Vasiliko, respectively northeast and northwest of Kirk Kilesseh, the Turks are still on Kirk Kilesseh heights, which is their second base of defense

Telegrams from the front stated that this day's fighting was inaugurated by an artillery duel, which began before daybreak.

The casualties have been very heavy and some of the dead, who fell four days ago, were still lying unburied The methods of the Bulgarian generals, under King Ferdinand, in carrying the Turkish strongholds north of Adrianople, indicated that the Bulgars would attempt to drive the Turks into the citadel with a grand assault all along the line.

Every telegram today was expected to bring word of a general bayonet advance by the Bulgarians upon the second Turkish base of operations

Heavy Bulgarian guns were brought up and King Ferdinand tried to throw shells into the city, but the distance was too great Brilliant Work.

The bloodiest fighting is around Kirk Kilesseh, or the city of Forty Churches, where the defence has been as brilliant as the reported attacks

Bulgarian aeroplanes have been assembled at the front and daily reconnaissances are being made by Bulgarian aviators. One airman ascended 1,000 feet and made a rough draft of the Turkish works in the outskirts of Adrianople. The Turks directed a steady fire at the machine, but it was out of range.

Minor fighting is reported at a number of scattered points east and west of Adrianople A Constantinople dispatch states that the Bulgarian force stationed at Marasa was routed by Turks and fled, leaving thousands of dead upon the battlefield

All Constantinople reports of the fight as received here, are believed to be highly colored. The Sofia telegrams are regarded as much more reliable.

Greeks Chase Turks.

Athens, Oct. 24.—All the Turks have been driven from the Greek frontiers The Turkish army is in full retreat across the Kambia mountains, followed by the victorious Greek army, under Crown Prince Constantine, which is cutting off the stragglers. The Turkish army broken by the rout, are going in the direction of Salonika.

Greek mountaineers are forming volunteer bands, and are attacking the fleeing Turks in every quarter.

At Servidje, two Turkish battalions were entirely wiped out The Greeks captured a great quantity of stores and artillery. The Ottoman leaders are making a final stand in Kilkis sado pass.

The outposts of each army kept up an all-night fire, and at dawn the general engagement was resumed.

Turks Driven Back.

Sofia, Oct 24.—Dispatches from the front today gave details of the fighting around Kirk Kilesseh, the general position of the Turks northeast of Adrianople. A Turkish division moved from its position in an attempt to drive back the Bulgarians who were pressing upon the fortified works at Kirk Kilesseh. Bulgarian batteries shelled the Turks, inflicting severe losses. Under cover of the artillery fire, Bulgarian infantry, with fixed bayonets, charged the Turks. The Turkish soldiers retreated, leaving many dead.

The Bulgarians then retired in order and the artillery duel was resumed. The Bulgarian losses were slight.

Bulgarians Checked.

Salonika, Oct. 24.—The Bulgarian advance upon Uskub has been checked, according to dispatches from there, received here today. They were delayed in transmission by censorship and other causes.

A Turkish force, advancing northward through the Struma valley, the dispatches said, met and hurled back the Bulgarians and captured two heavy guns The Turks occupied the town of Dewlendorpat, driving

REVOLT PASSES INTO HISTORY

Last of the Diaz Rebels Lay Down Their Arms.

GENERAL IS GIVEN PAROLE BY BELTRAM

Will Be Tried in the Capital by Court-Martial.

Reports from Mexico City Say Unpopularity of Madero Government Is Evidenced by Failure of Republic To Show Enthusiasm Over Defeat and Capture of Diaz—He Will Probably Not Be Shot.

Vera Cruz, Oct. 24.—The last vestige of the revolt of General Felix Diaz was removed early today, when 300 insurgents, who had refused to surrender when their leader was captured yesterday, laid down their arms. They were marched to the city's outskirts to be put on a train for Mexico City.

General Diaz has given his parole to General Beltram, the federal commander, and is allowed to go about without guard until taken to the capital for trial.

No Enthusiasm Shown.

Mexico City, Oct. 24.—The unpopularity of the Madero governmnen was strongly evidenced today by the failure of the republic to show any enthusiasm over the defeat and capture of Felix Diaz, at Vera Cruz.

The city is tranquil. Neither loyalists or revolutionary sympathizers are making any demonstration.

General Diaz will be tried by court-martial and then sentenced to death. It is probable, however, that he will not be executed, as Madero's advisers are urging him to pardon the revolutionary leader as a diplomatic stroke.

Rebels Steal Engine.

Torreon, Mex., Oct. 24.—Seizing a locomotive on the National railway near here, Mexican rebels today ran the "wildcat" engine into a passenger train, wrecking the latter. The wrecked train was then robbed.

Must Release Dunn.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The United States embassy in Mexico City informed the state department today that notice had been served on the government officials that they must release H. H. Dunn, the American newspaper correspondent, sezed by them Monday, or the United States would take other and more direct means of securing his liberty.

Dunn has been one of the representatives of the National News association in Mexico since the outbreak of the Madero revolution.

A CHICAGO FOG CAUSES WRECKS

Trains, Street Cars and Teams Get Mixed Up.

SEVEN HURT IN ONE OF THE ACCIDENTS

Thousands Are Late to Work This Morning.

The Windy City's Car Service Is Rendered Uncertain by the Dence Fog. Six Crashes of More or Less Importance Occur Before the Great Cloud Lifts—Wreck on Pennsylvania Is Most Serious.

Chicago, Oct 24.—Seven persons were injured, one fatally, today when Pennsylvania suburban train crashed through a street car at 106th street and Avenue C.

The accident was the result of a heavy fog, which engulfed Chicago today and caused a number of other minor accidents in which railroad trains, teams, street cars and elevated trains figured Many persons were injured.

Those first summoned after the collision between the railroad train and street car found two men unconscious and reported them dead. They were afterwards revived. One of them will die.

A collision between two heavy passenger trains, on the Illinois Central, occurred at Seventeenth street A number of persons are reported to have been injurd.

A Michigan Central train from Detroit was struck by a Big Four train from Cincinnati in the yards, south of the Illinois Central station. The rear car of the Detroit train was split open. A call was sent to Mercy hospital.

Four Hurt in Crash.

Four persons were hurt when a Fortieth avenue car struck an ice wagon at Fortieth avenue and west Indiana street

Two northbound South Side elevated trains collided in the fog at Vernon avenue and Sixty-Third street The trains were running very slowly. The motormen of both trains were slightly injured. Passengers were thrown into a panic, but guards prevented them from leaving the cars.

The fog made regular schedules either by street cars, elevated lines or railroads impossible, and trains in and out of the city were delayed, while thousands of persons on their way to their offices were late.

The Pennsylvania train was one bringing workmen from Hedgewisch to Chicago. It was heavily loaded, and was running at a high rate of speed round a curve when the car, on the Hammond, Whiting & East Chicago line, ran squarely on the tracks in front of it. The accident occurred in an out-of-the-way place, and it was more than half an hour before aid arrived

The injured were strewn along the railroad for more than a quarter of a mile.

The Known Injured.

James Gray, Chicago, will die.

William Hack, no address, condition serious; is unconscious.

William Chambers, Chicago, internally hurt, serious.

H. W. Sills, unconscious, serious.

A E. Dike, Chicago, bruised and internal injuries.

Charles Steele, Chicago, ribs broken, internally hurt.

Governor Chase S. Osborn, of Michigan, and Mrs. Osborne were passengers on the wrecked Michigan Central train. The governor's right foot was injured so badly that he found it necessary to walk with a cane. Mrs. Osborn was unhurt.

Another "John D." Story.

New York, Oct. 24.—The newest John D. Rockefeller story is that, when a young man, acting as bookkeeper for the uncle of Henry Clews, the banker, the present oil king asked an increase over his $15 weekly salary. "Can't have it—you aren't worth it," was the reply.

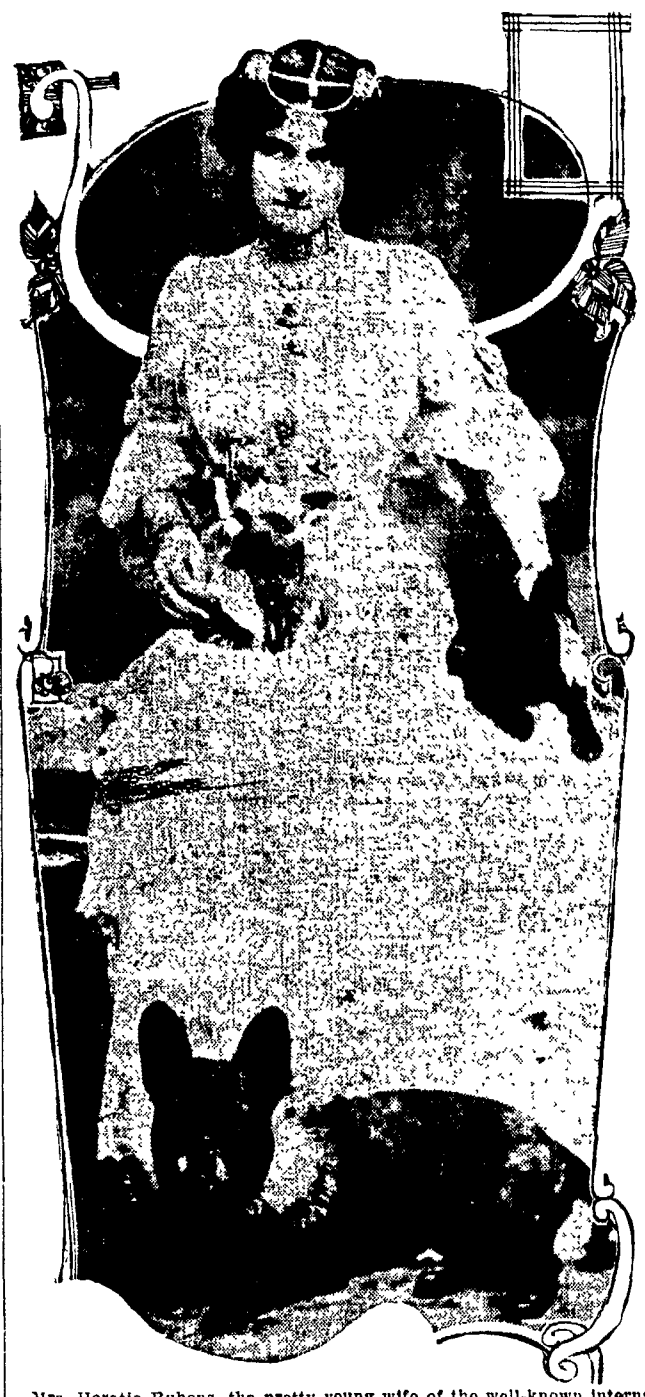
Scourge Kills Ducks.

San Francisco Oct. 24.—An unknown scourge is killing thousands of wild ducks. The same disease killed about a million ducks near Salt lake a short time ago.

BOY GOES INSANE FROM STARVATION

New York, Oct. 24.—Michael Lanakis, is insane from starvation, as the result of trying to live on seventy-five cents worth of food a week, so he could bring his sister from Greece.

PRETTY WOMAN DEFIES THE CUSTOMS PROBE.



Mrs. Horatio Rubens, the pretty young wife of the well-known international lawyer, who created considerable excitement on a steamship pier at Philadelphia by refusing to sign the usual affidavit regarding her luggage which is now detained in the appraiser's office for examination.

DEFEAT OF DIAZ BLOW TO REBELS

Enhances Prestige of Madero Administration.

THE GOVERNMENT MAKES CLAIM GOOD

Washington Hears of Result With Surprise.

Commander Hughes Says There Is Much Fighting Within the Limits of Vera Cruz—Outcome of Battle Will Likely Mark Turning Point in Mexican Affairs and Prove Setback to All the Rebels.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The defeat and capture of General Felix Diaz by Mexican federal forces near Vera Cruz has been officially reported to Washington. Both Consul Camada and Commander Hughes of the Des Moines cabled the news of the federal victory. Diaz's defeat is taken here to mean the collapse of the entire revolutionary movement which centered in him.

Commander Hughes reported that the federal forces had taken possession of the city of Vera Cruz. There was much fighting within the city limits. Medical officers and assistants have been sent out through the city by Commander Hughes to give such assistance as might be possible. Consul Canada made essentially the same report, adding that Diaz, his staff and most of his men had been captured and disarmed.

The news was a great surprise to the officers of the state department and officers of the army and navy stationed at the department. From the very first General Diaz has been picked to win. The general opinion here is that the defeat of General Diaz is likly to mark the turning point in affairs in Mexico and prove a great setback to Zapata, Orozco, Salazar and other rebels now in the field against the Madero government.

The manner in which the Madero government has made good on its claim that Diaz would be crushed is expected greatly to enhance the prestige of the entire administration both at home and abroad.

DOUBT STORY OF MURDERER

Joseph Bunonona Says Act Is Sudden Impulse

WHEN HE KILLS WOMAN, WHILE ON AUTO RIDE

Prisoner in State of Mental and Physical Collapse.

Bridgeport, Connecticut, Police Think the Self-Confessed Murderer Hunts All Over Country To Kill Woman—Will Be Arraigned This Week. Confession Somewhat Dissipates the White Slave Theory.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct 24.—Joseph Bunonona, self-confessed murderer of Jennie Cavaglieri, alias Rose White, is in a state of mental and physical collapse, following a thirty-six hours of almost continuous "sweating," first by Captain George H. Arnold, of the local detective force, and later by the state police Bunonona, and the two men arrested as accomplices in the automobile murder, will be arraigned before Judge Peck, of Stratford, either tomorrow or Saturday. The authorities hope, in the meantime, to get trace of the other two occupants of the car, who succeeded in making their escape and are still at large, and to have the entire company in the town court at that time.

According to the confession made by Bunonona, the act was one of sudden impulse, but the police are of the opinion that Bunonona had been hunting all over the country for the woman to murder her.

Is Constantly Armed.

The murdered was armed when he left Chicago last Saturday for New York, and he was armed when he arrived here, and he was prepared to kill the woman when he found her in this city, the police say. Bunonona denies that his companions knew of his intentions. He says he met Jennie Cavaglieri in Chicago, where she was the wife of Tony Cavaglieri, who died recently. When he left home last Saturday, Bunonona found she was gone, taking all her belongings with her He left Chicago Saturday night to look for her, he said. After making a search in New York for two days, he came to Bridgeport.

While the man's confession somewhat dissipates the white slave theory, the authorities point to the fact that the men who were with Bunonona, when he took the woman on her death ride, have been mixed up in white slave cases all over the country.

IS PAID OUT OF DYNAMITE FUND

George O'Donnell Hired by the Ironworkers' Union

TO BLOW UP BRIDGE IN MASSACHUSETTS

Alleged Fact Brought Out in Indianapolis Trial.

O'Donnell's Prison Term Is Up and He Is Supposed To Be Dead, but Is Not—Witnesses Tell How Many Bridges in Various Parts of Country Are Destroyed by Dynamite.

Indianapolis, Oct. 24.—That George O'Donnell, now supposed to be dead, and formerly a member of the Denver, Colorado, ironworkers' local, and who served a prison term for blowing up a bridge at Somerset, Massachusetts, June 15, 1908, was paid for the job from the ironworkers' international dynamiting fund, was the assertion of District Attorney Miller in federal court here this morning.

This alleged fact was brought out during the testimony of Policeman William Medley, of Somerset. Medley told of the dynamiting of a bridge at Fall River, Massachusetts, April 26, 1908, which was being erected by the American Bridge company, and the bridge at Somerset, being erected by the Phoenix Bridge company.

O'Donnell's prison term has expired. He is supposed to be dead, but he is not.

J. G. Carver, of Trenton, New Jersey, timekeeper for the American Bridge company, told how a bridge, being put up by his company at Pelham bay, was dumped into the bay the night of February 3, 1908, when the guy clamps were removed.

James T. Lane, bridge superintendent for the McClintic Marshall Construction company, testified to the fact that dynamite wrecked the Denison Harbor viaduct, being constructed at Cleveland, June 22, 1910. Lane was night watchman on the job that night.

A Double Explosion.

James L. Wertz, Philadelphia detective, told of a double explosion which wrecked some elevated railroad work near the old navy yard in Philadelphia the night of April 13, 1908, being constructed by the American Bridge company.

The defense says this was a union job, and that it was not done by any of the alleged conspirators.

Henry W. Pohlman, business agent and secretary of the Seattle, Washington, Ironworkers, testified that E. A. Clancy, the coast defendant, called on him at Seattle in the early part of August, 1910. An office building was dynamited in Seattle in August, 1910. Pohlman identified correspondence between himself and McNamara, in one letter of which he enclosed a clipping telling of the explosion. He did not remember sending it. He is not indicted.

Pohlman also identified correspondence between himself and H S. Hockin, the alleged dynamite gang leader.

Pohlman is the first ironworker who has produced and identified correspondence with McNamara although a number of ironworkers have been called to the stand.

Pohlman is the man who was cited for contempt of court in the McNamara trial in California for not producing the correspondence he produced here.

HILLES FIRES A BROADSIDE

Republican Chairman Writes an Open Letter,

ASKING WILSON SOME POINTED QUESTIONS

Demands That Tariff Issue Be Met Squarely.

People Know Tariff Underlies Business Progress and Success in United States and Have Right To Know Where Democratic Candidate Stands—Well-Poised, Academic Speech Worthless.

New York, Oct. 24.—The following open letter from Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican national committee, to Woodrow Wilson, candidate of the Democratic party for President, containing a number of pointed questions, which Mr. Wilson will experience some difficulty in answering, was given out for publication today.

Hon. Woodrow Wilson,
Trenton, New Jersey.

Sir—The platform of your party on the tariff question this year is extremely destructive and disturbing. This is what the Democratic party now says to the people on this question:

"We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the federal government, under the constitution, has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties, except for the purpose of revenue, and we demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of the government honestly and economically administered."

A Revolutionary Attack.

This is a declaration that protective tariff duties are unconstitutional. If the Democrats believe this they must, if successful, proceed without delay to sweep them away. This means to put our industries and occupations on a free-trade basis ruthlessly and without regard to business or economic considerations. This platform declaration by your party unquestionably means that, having been baffled in their many attempts to convince the American people that protective duties were not good for them on economic grounds, your party now abandons the appeal to economics and drags in the constitution in their assault on protection. This position is revolutionary. For a hundred years protective tariff duties have been accepted as constitutional. To have them declared unconstitutional now would be to suddenly stop and dismantle the wheels of progress in our country, and leave only uncertainty and weakness where there had been confidence, enterprise and strength. This would be a deplorable economic revolution and retrogression.

Yet you and your candidacy stand upon this platform declaration. You apparently accept and endorse it. You do so unless you clearly reject it. Do you repudiate it? If you do not, you must be reckoned with as a free-trader seeking to have all protective tariff duties outlawed. This is a question which seriously threatens the security and prosperity of the country.

Crushing Injustice.

Your personal position in this matter and the declarations of your party are more than ever threatening because the record of your party in actually handling tariff matters is so unfortunate and so recklessly unfair. You and your followers seek to assure the people that they should be trusted with the difficult and delicate work of tariff revision. Yet they have just shown by their official acts that they will not be fair and just in this matter. The Democratic party controls the present house of representatives by a substantial majority, and has, with a free hand, framed and passed a number of tariff bills since the assembling of the present congress.

The actions of the Democratic patry, rather than their words, show us what we have to expect from them. The platform of this party in 1908 promised a gradual revision of duties if the party should be entrusted with power. By the elections of 1910 they were entrusted with power in the house of representatives, which originates tariff bills. The party hastened to use its power. Did they attempt a gradual or systematic revision of the tariff? By no means. They forced through a series of tariff bills constituting a hasty, piecemeal revision—really not a revision at all, but a crude, slap-dash and reckless slashing of duties, involving many very heavy reductions and the placing of many articles on

IS GLAD TO BE AT OYSTER BAY

Colonel Roosevelt Reaches His Home This Morning.

NO HARMFUL EFFECT COMES FROM THE TRIP

May Be Able To Speak After a Week of Quiet.

The Ex-President Is Placed in His Favorite Room in the Sagamore Hill Home—Slight Change Made En Route at Last Stage of Journey To Avoid Crowd—Colonel Feels "Bully."

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Swinging his hat in happiness, Theodore Roosevelt came home today. The ex-president, still carrying the bullet that was fired into his body last Monday night, arrived in good condition, and is now installed in his favorite room on the second floor of the Roosevelt home.

The last stage of the journey, that from New York to Sagamore Hill, was travelled by special train and automobile. The train was made up of the colonel's private car, carrying himself and family, and the car carrying the newspaper correspondents, who accompanied the party from Chicago.

The plan had been for Colonel Roosevelt to leave his car at Oyster Bay, but this was changed when Mrs. Roosevelt heard that a large crowd had gathered there to welcome the colonel. She asked the Long Island railroad officials to stop the train at Syosset, Long Island, which is the same distance as Oyster Bay from Sagamore Hill. This request was granted, and word was sent ahead to have the automobile which had gone to Oyster Bay to proceed to Syosset. The train arrived there at 9:30.

Hear of Change in Plan.

News of the change of plan had preceded the train, and about fifty persons had gathered. Roosevelt walked from the car unassisted and exclaimed:

"I feel bully glad to get home."

Still unassisted, the colonel walked the few steps to the automobile with Mrs. Roosevelt, his daughter, Ethel, and Dr. Lambert close behind.

As Roosevelt entered the automobile, he took off his hat and waved it to the small crowd. Dr. Scurry L. Terrell and Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., followed the rest of the party. A second later an automobile drove up. Colonel Roosevelt and his two physicians entered the one which had first arrived, while Mrs. Roosevelt and her children took the second, the party starting for Sagamore Hill.

Arrangements had been made for their coming. The room, which the colonel had always considered his own private property, is one on the second floor which commands a sweeping view of the hills and valleys of Long Island. In this had been placed a roomy Morris chair as comfortable as a bed, and in this the colonel will spend the next few days convalescing from his wound, when not kept in his bed by his physicians.

Coonel Roosevelt arrived at his home at Sagamore Hill at 9:53 o'clock.

"I feel just bully," said the ex-president. "Feel good enough to start into campaigning right away."

Roosevelt's physicians, who made an examination of the colonel as soon as he arrived at his home, announced that the trip had had no harmful effect.

Must Rest a Week.

"Mr. Roosevelt must have absolute rest for a week," said Dr. Lambert. "If he does not, he can't get into the campaign at all. But if he obeys orders, he will not only be able to make the Madison Square garden speech, but several others. It seems now that all danger from the wound is passed."

Ralph Amos, the negro butler, met the party at the door, and the colonel smiled a "Hello Ralph" to him.

"Say, it's good to get home after that week in the hospital," the colonel remarked to one of the doctors as the door closed.

The colone' was taken to his room at once, and the doctors set to work removing his bandages and making a general examination of his condition, which was satisfactory to them.

"It was surprising the way the colonel stood the trip," said George E. Roosevelt, who accompanied the party from Chicago.

"Instead of having a harmful effect, it seemed to benefit him and today there came a revival of his old spirits. He was told not to talk, but he could not be stopped. He was irrepressible and he seemed so eager to get back into the campaign that it will be a hard task to keep him quiet during the next week."

Children Buy Wreath.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 22.—At the Pennsylvania station in New York, the Roosevelt party was joined by Dr. Joseph A. Blake, head of the Roosevelt hospital in New York, and Dr. George C. Brower, one of the most eminent surgeons in the East. These two doctors made the trip to Sagamore Hill, holding a consultation meantime with Drs. Terrill and Lambert.

The colonel wore his heavy army overcoat in the machine, and said he felt no chill, although the air was raw and a stiff breeze was blowing.

At Sagamore Hill a surprise awaited the colonel. Scores of school children had chipped in their pennies and bought a wreath of flowers to be placed in the colonel's room. The children all know and like Roosevelt, and while a few of them played "hookey" from school so they could be on hand when their friend arrived, they lurked about Oyster Bay station until an hour after train time, wondering why the special did not get in.

The children were not the only ones who sent flowers, for the home contained flowers of all kinds.

Doctors Undecided.

New York, Oct. 22.—Whether Colonel Roosevelt will be able to re-enter the campaign is still undecided by his physicians, and will remain so for several days, according to a bulletin on the ex-president's condition given out at Progressive headquarters in this city. The bulletin reads:

"Colonel Roosevelt has stood the journey well, but of course is tired. His wound is still open and is oozing serum. Rest and quiet are essential to him to avoid the possibility of wound infection. He will be unable to see any one today or tomorrow.

"While Colonel Roosevelt is extremely anxious to take up the work of the campaign at the end of this week, we are not willing, at this time, to say this will be possible.

"Joseph A. Blake,
"George E. Brewer,
"Alexander Lambert,
"Scurry L. Terrell."

The bulletin was brought from Oyster Bay to Progressive headquarters, which has established a censorship over news relating to Roosevelt, as well as that of the campaign.

HARMON ISSUES A PROCLAMATION

Ohioans Urged To Observe Tuberculosis Day, October 27.

Columbus, O., Oct. 22. — Governor Judson, Harmon,, urging the observance of Tuberculosis Day in Ohio on the 27th day of October, has issued the following proclamation:

"The terrible ravages of tuberculosis in the United States, destroying, as it does, two hundred thousand persons each year, has led to organized fight in this country looking toward its extinction. Scientific research has disclosed its prevention, and, under favorable conditions, the cure. Societies have been formed over the world to combat this plague, rightly called the greatest of all the ills which destroy human life.

"This should be followed by general information on the part of our people as to its cause and methods by which its fearful work may be conquered. In this way alone can this monster, which every year consumes thousands of lives, millions of money, untold physical suffering and misery, be finally stamped out.

"To the end that Ohio may earnestly engage in this most laudable effort, all philanthropic organizations and all individuals are requested to observe Sunday, October 27th, 1912, designated as Tuberculosis Day, in spreading every form of information as to the character, prevention and cure of tuberculosis."

SAYS REPORTS ARE JUGGLED

Miss Mary Dye Tells of Orders She Receives

FROM M'NAMARA AND OTHER IRONWORKERS

Transfers Money to Unitemized Emergency Fund.

The Government Scores in Its Case Against the Indicted Ironworkers in the Indianapolis Dynamite Conspiracy Trial—Crooked Dealings Uncovered by Wholesale in Financial Records of Defendants.

Indianapolis, Oct. 22.—Mary Dye, of Pittsburgh, testified in the dynamite case in federal court here today that J. J. McNamara, Defendants Frank C. Webb, of New York; H. S. Hockin, of Detroit, and E. A. Clancy, of San Francisco, met together at the ironworkers' headquarters here and juggled their respective financial reports, ordering her, Miss Dye, to cut out certain items of large amounts, and transfer them to the unitemized "emergency fund," of which no accounting was made.

Miss Dye's is the first direct evidence that has been given against any of the defendants. The government also played a prize card this morning against Defendants Frank M. Ryan, of Chicago; John T. Butler, of Buffalo; E. A. Clancy, of San Francisco; Henry W. Legleitner, of Pittsburgh and Denver; Michael J. Young, of Boston; Philip A. Cooley, of New Orleans, and Frank C. Webb, of New York.

The government showed, by the evidence of Miss Dye, that these men, as members of the ironworkers' international executive board, in 1909, turned over to J. J. McNamara, by check, $1,000 from the funds, which never was accounted for on the books.

The government showed further, by a series of checks, of which no record ever was made, that at various times Cooley, Clancy, Ryan, Webb, Butler and Young received "advances" from this money from J. J. McNamara, of which no accounting ever was made.

CONVICT KILLED BY PEN GUARD

MAKES HIS ESCAPE FROM THE HOSPITAL

Recently Returned to Columbus After Escape.

William Barnegraff, Serving a Life Sentence for Murder, Dies This Morning After Falling Thirty Feet from Penitentiary Wall, Struck by Bullet Fired by Guard Carson—Is Confined in Cellar.

Columbus, Oct. 22.—Captured at Piqua, a little more than a week ago, after having escaped October 12, with three fellow prisoners, through the penitentiary sewers, William Barnegraff, aged twenty-four, serving a life sentence from Butler county for murder, was shot early today as he was scaling the north wall of the main building at the state penitentiary.

Barnegraff fell thirty feet to the ground, with a bullet wound over his left eye, and sustained compound fractures of his right ankle, left wrist and elbow joint. His nose was split open and he was picked up unconscious. He died at the prison hospital this morning.

It has not yet been learned how Barnegraff succeeded in breaking out of the hospital, where he was confined in the basement.

The prisoner, after being returned October 13 to the penitentiary, in company with George Washington, colored, who also figured in the sewer escape, has been kept in the basement of the prison hospital here. He succeeded in getting out of the cellar and into the yard and attempted to scale the wall of the main building, which is about sixty feet high. He used the rough, projecting stones near the corner of the structure as a ladder.

Those who escaped, October 12, through the sewor with Barnegraff, in addition to Washington, were Clyde Stratton, Williams county burglar, and James Neal, Lawrence county burglar. Stratton and Neal are still at large.

The fatal shot, which brought Barnegraff down, was fired by Guard Carson.

CALEDONIA MAN IS VICTIM OF ACCIDENT

Floyd McPeek Struck by Car and Kicked by a Horse.

Floyd McPeek, of Caledonia, had his face badly cut and bruised, Sunday evening, by being kicked by a horse. Mr. McPeek was going from Bucyrus to Galion on an interurban car and when near Beck's crossing the power was shut off delaying the car. Mr. McPeek and the motorman walked to a telephone and were waiting for the car when the unfortunate man, who was standing too close to the tracks, was struck by the car and thrown to the ground. Just as he fell a horse and buggy came along, and in the darkness the driver did not see McPeek. Before the motorman could cry out, the man had driven over the hepless form of the injured man. The horse kicked McPeek in the face and head. He also suffered internal injuries.

FATAL FIGHT IN CROWDED CAFE

Man and Woman Stab Each Other in St. Louis.

TRAGEDY OCCURS WITHOUT WARNING

Both of the Dead Persons Are Identified.

Man Plunges Knife into Woman's Body and She Wrests Weapon from Him and Stabs Him in the Throat—Postcard Used To Identify Man—The Woman Dies Without Speaking.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 22.—Miss Elizabeth Leigh, who this morning identified the woman killed by a jealous suitor in the Falstaff cafe last night as Mrs. Alice O'Donnell was taken to police headquarters and, in a second statement to the chief, declared she and Mrs. O'Donnell met a man at Cook and Grand avenue last night, and went with him to the wine room. They were drinking in the place when Leonida Morreale, whose cousin is P. Accardi, of Brooklyn, New York, rushed into the place and stabbed Mrs. O'Donnell twice in the back and then killed himself.

Those at the Cook avenue address say Morreale had called there three or four times and the woman avoided him. Morreale left a note to Leonida Morreale, No. 170 Johnson street, Brooklyn, in which he said that he was in love and was jealous.

Morreale had been in St. Louis about a month.

Fight in Crowded Cafe.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 22.—In the crowded Falstaff cafe, in the heart of the down-town district, the man and a woman fought to the death early today.

Mrs. O'Donnell was seated in the cafe with two men and a woman when Morreale entered. He went quietly to a table, called the woman, and she, with little apparent concern, left the party and seated herself at another table with the newcomer.

There was a cry. Morreale stood above the woman and plunged a knife into her body. She screamed and they struggled into the center of the room, where Mrs. O'Donnell wrested the knife from Morreale and stabbed him in the throat. He fell dead and she fell across his body.

Scores of women fainted and men fled. Mrs. O'Donnell died on the way to the hospital, without speaking. The tragedy occurred without the slightest warning. Within five minutes the street about the Falstaff was massed with people.

ROBBED OF $335,000 EXAMINER REPORTS

Darke County Rich Picking for Officials and Others.

Columbus, O., Oct. 22. — Darke county was looted out of $335,489.59 by county officials and contractors during the five years beginning in August, 1907, according to the reports of State Examiner John A. Bliss and Engineer L. B. Harvey to State Auditor Fullington.

Findings were returned against ex-County Commissioners N. D. Sippel, William H. Townsend and T. L. Brewer, Commission's Clerk E. K. Lott and R. L. Turner, janitor of courthouse.

All of these men are under indictment. Sippel is in the pen and has turned state's evidence. Townsend was sentenced to three years in the pen Saturday. Lott went on trial Monday, and Brewer and Turner are yet to be tried.

The dictagraph was used in gathering evidence, conversations being recorded between Ed Fry, a contractor, and Lott, Sippel, Townsend and Turner, which resulted in the indictment of the last four men.

Bliss also reported that State Highway Commissioner James R. Marker, formerly surveyor of Darke county, had drawn illegally a total of $163.93 of the county's funds.

The examination was made by the state upon petition of a score of taxpayers of Darke county. The alleged looting was done through padded bills for bridge repair, concrete and road work, the examiners say, and fictitious bills were presented and collected for work never performed.

An interesting side light is the fact that the basement of the courthouse was used as a saloon in local option time, and the "swag," according to one affidavit, seems to have been divided there.

Prosecutor Maher, in a telegram received here, declares the charge against him had been fixed up by grafters.

AN ERIE SWITCHMAN KILLED IN DAYTON

He Is Believed To Be the Victim of Foul Play.

Charles Hess, a former Galion man, and a switchman in the Erie yards in Dayton, was killed in the yards, early Sunday morning. He was found in an unconscious condition with one side of his head crushed in, and died shortly after being removed to a hospital, without regaining consciousness. Foul play is suspected. The nature of the wound leads the police to believe he met death by a blow on the head inflicted with some heavy instrument. Robbery is not thought to have been the purpose of the deed, as there was considerable money and a gold watch on his person when found.

Hess is survived by a widow and eight-year-old son. He was thirty-five years of age.

Bonds Are Registered.

Tuesday, County Auditor Jay Spaulding registered the Firstenberger five per cent. pike bonds, amounting to $7,500, and turned them over to Attorney Charles L. Justice, who, after obtaining the signatures of the pike commissioners, will deliver them to the New First National bank, of Columbus, the purchaser.

A marriage license has been issued to Miss Marian E. Fletcher, of Marion, and Fred W. Stoll, of Louisville.

MARCONI MAY LOSE OTHER EYE

Since the removal of the right eye of Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy, by Dr. Bayardi, the noted Turin surgeon, the specialists have been working night and day on the injured genius in the hope of saving the sight of his remaining good eye. Mr. Marconi was seriously injured, September 25, in an automobile accident near Borghetto.

NOT POSSIBLE TO LINK THEM

Wilson and Good Times Are Not Possible,

SAYS PRESIDENT TO JOHN WANAMAKER

Taft Recalls the Wilson Bill and What Ensued.

The Chief Executive Says the Same Thing Would Come To Pass Again Were He Defeated and Democratic Policies Substituted for Those Under Which the Country Has Prospered So Greatly.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 22.—White House officials last night made public a letter from President Taft to John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, dealing with some of the issues of the campaign, and thanking Mr. Wanamaker in his own behalf and on behalf of the people of the nation for his "splendid work." The president's letter dealt almost exclusively with the tariff and prosperity, which he declared was largely due to protection. He says Wilson and prosperity do not go together, recalling the previous Wilson bill.

The letter, in part, reads:

"My Dear Mr. Wanamaker:

"I want to thank you for the splendid work you are doing for the success of the Republican party in the approaching election. I thank you not for myself alone, but for the people at large, who have so much to lose, so little to gain from a change of administration, who will indeed suffer if a Democratic president and a Democratic congress secure the opportunity to make good their platform pledges, and an extra session of congress is called next March to change the tariff from a protective to a revenue basis.

Industries Would Suffer.

"Wholly apart from the respective merits of the protective and the tariff-for-revenue policies, it must be obvious to thinking men that so radical a change can not be effected without a period of readjustment, the wiping out of numerous industries which pay good wages to thousands of employes. Even were it admitted—and I do not admit it—that ultimately this readjustment would be successful, and that our present protected and prosperous industries could be replaced by others which would thrive without protection, what of the transition period? How would fare the wage-earner, who was thrown out of employment for a year or more, and who, in many instances, would be compelled to learn a new trade?"

"As a protectionist, I can see no benefit to be gained from such a change, even when the readjustment is completed. For sixty years under the protective policy, our industries have grown at a pace which has astounded the world.

High Living Standard.

"Our wage-earners have established and maintained a standard of living which is unknown in the old world. Even during the period of high cost of living, which has prevailed throughout the civilized world for a few years, our people have suffered no such hardships as those of the old world.

"The abundant crops of this year are already operating to decrease the cost of living to the American working man, while there is every indication that wages will be maintained. On the other hand our factories are running full time, there are abundant orders ahead, wages high and it is labor, not employment, of which there is a scarcity. With plenty of employment at good wages and the prices of foodstuffs falling in some instances, in others about to fall, the wage earner is just on the eve of garnering his harvest and if the existing conditions are not changed by a political upheaval we will see the balances in the savings banks grow in the next four years as never before.

The Distress Which Ensued.

"We have experimented in the past with the tariff theories of our Democratic friends. You will recall as clearly as I do the distress which followed the passage of the Wilson bill. Is there not a certain significance in the fact that it is another Wilson who would again subject us to such an experiment? Will and prosperity are words that refuse to go together in our American history.

"The election of a Democratic president would mean the election of a Democratic senate and house, and the present congress has proved how savagely and with what recklessness the Democrats would deal with the tariff if they were in full control of the executive and the legislative branches of the government. I can not understand how any American voter can fail to see that by throwing away his vote for the third party, or by voting for Democrats in power in the White House and in congress he is surely courting disaster as is a small child playing with matches."

Marriage licenses have beeen issued to Miss Dorotha Estella Heiner, of Marion, and Walter Tracy Keiner, of Delaware, and Miss Phoebe Mae Grissinger and Vinton Ellsbrose, both of Marion.

CHARGES PLOT AGAINST TAFT

General Brown Says Magazines Are in Conspiracy.

HEAP ABUSE UPON PRESIDENT'S HEAD

Because He Drives Them Out of the Treasury.

Republican Candidate for Governor Names Saturday Evening Post and the Magazines Owned by Frank A. Munsey as Ringleaders in the Attack of Publishers on Mr. Taft in Xenia Address.

Xenia, O., Oct 24.—In his speeches at Xenia and Jamestown Wednesday, General R. B Brown, Republican candidate for governor, charged the magazines of the country with a conspiracy to defeat President Taft, because he had refused to tax the people. that millionaire publishers might make further millions through advertising matter.

General Brown exempted some periodicals from his sweeping challenge, but specifically charged the publishers of the Saturday Evening Post and Frank A Munsey, with his twenty-two magazines, with using their columns against President Taft, because he had demanded that they take their hand from the public treasury

The opposition to President Taft began when Post Master General Hitchcock, in performing his duty to the country, recommended that these periodicals pay their share of the freight to the government for carrying the advertising portions of their issues" said General Brown.

"Mr Hitchcock's offense consisted of his business-like effort to reduce the cost of carrying your letters and postals to a half cent instead of two and one cents, respectively.

"His impartial investigations proved that, while it cost the United States government $77,000,000 to transport these periodicals, they paid but $9,000,000, thus making a net loss per year to the postal department of $68,000,000.

The Recommendation.

"Mr Hitchcock recommended that not the reading matter contained in these magazines be assessed, but that the advertising matter should be the criterion as to the charges. For instance, the Saturdaly Evening Post, in its latest issue, carried thirty-six and a half pages for such matter.

"It was then that these millionaires and multi-millionaires of the advertising business combined together to defeat President Taft. Every week they have consistently and disgracefully misrepresented him

'Frank A Munsey hastened to the field of Armageddon with his spear that found a brother in the dough bag of George W. Perkins, who represents, in this campaign, the grievance of the steel and harvester trusts I honor President Taft for the enmity of these great advertising mediums and trusts.

"Mr Taft has opposed them in the benalf of the people, and the ultimate dispassionate record of history will so represent it to posterity. I have know the president of the United States for many years, and I honor William Howard Taft as highly as any man who has occupied the highest office within the gift of the American people. He entered the office better equipped for the service of his country than any man since Washington, and has received more abuse than any chief executive since Lincoln. Self-servers like Munsey and Perkins, dreamers and soppists, have charged him with every political offense in the calendar.

Fewer Working Hours.

"Among other things has been the high cost of living. I glory in the high cost of living, in so far as it reflects fewer working hours per day, higher wages and greater luxuries for the common people. The eight hour day, which I favor, means a greater expense of production.

'I was an eight-hour boy when I worked on the farm, eight hours work in the morning and eight in the afternoon. And I can appreciate the demands of the modern workingman He should have more hours for rest and recreation. Then if that means enhanced cost to the consumer, I also favor higher wages, even if that means that all of us shall pay more for what we wear and eat. I know what the luxuries of twenty, thirty and forty years ago were, because I saw other people enjoying them. The luxuries yesterday were the necessities of today, and I am glad of it although it means a higher cost of living.

The demagogue cries out about men being richer and the poor becoming poorer.

He produces nothing, but wails and gives bad advice and is an example of the social parasite. I challenge him to go out into the highway of Green county and pick out the children of the rich and the children of the poor. He can not do it; in no other city is there less distinction in the garns of the different classes of the people

Whence come our captains of industry, and our leaders in the city and country? Why, from the poor, who, according to the political quack, are growing poorer. The muckraker has sold his wares for dollars until a condition, akin to chaos, exists in certain parts of the country.

Abused by Publishers.

'Honest men are afraid to accept public service because of the calumny it brings to themselves and their families. It is this character of abuse that has been leveled at President Taft by the multi-millionaire publishers' trust, magazine quacks and theorists, between whose greed and nostrums, on one side, and the interest of the people, on the other, he has bravely stood."

In his speeches at Xenia and Yellow Springs, Senator Theodore E. Burton spoke of the prosperity of 1912, and asked if the country to swap horses in the stream of plenty. He asked his audience if they wished a return of the pale of 1893 and all that followed in its wake during the Democratic administration.

"They had a man named Wilson, then a Virginian and college professor, it was Wilson whose tariff bill substituted the humbug of a Democratic platform for the hum of industry. The Democrats now have another Wilson, Woodrow by name. He is a Virginian by birth and a college professor by trade. He too wants to cure our ills with a tariff bill. Will the same people of this country permit history to repeat itself, and have the awful silence of industrial stagnation again fill the land.

"As to the high cost of living, if relief comes, it will be through three causes. A decrease in the production of gold, which seems probably from economic laws; better and cheaper methods of distribution, and the bountiful crops that are now filling our granaries. It will come through the Republican party and not through the Democrats or the Bull Moosers, who unlike Jack Horner, do not sit in the corner, but go out on the highway and say 'what a good boy am I." The Honorable S. D. Fees, Republican candidate for congressman in the Sixth district, spoke with General Brown at Jamestown.

FATE RESTS IN HANDS OF JURY

Innocence or Guilt of Becker Soon To Be Known.

JUSTICE CONCLUDES CHARGE AT 1:30 P. M.

The Lieutenant Is Sure He Will Be Acquitted.

Prominent Lawyers Will Not Venture To Make Predictions as to the Verdict Which Will Be Returned. Jury Allowed To Take Lunch Before Beginning Its Deliberations Between 3:30 and 4 o'clock.

New York, Oct. 24.—The fate of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker now rests with the jury that is to determine whether he is guilty or innocent of the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Justice Goff charged the jury today in an address lasting two hours and forty-nine minutes. In it he brought out important points for the defense, but in general it was regarded as more favorable to the prosecution than to Becker.

When the court had concluded the charge, Attorney John F. McIntyre moved that the indictment be quashed. This was overruled. McIntyre followed this with several motions to strike out certain sections of the court's charge to the jury. These were all overruled The making of motions and their overruling by the court occupied twenty-one minutes and then the jury retired at 1:51 o'clock.

After the jury retired, they presented a request to the court, thorugh their foreman, Harold B. Skinner, that they be allowed to eat lunch before beginning their deliberations. Justice Goff granted their request, and ordered that the criminal court building be cleared of the crowd that surrounded it, so the jurors might be taken out for luncheon without interference.

A big touring car was called to carry the jurors from the court building to the Murray Hill hotel and Police Captain Lynch was appointed with seven detectives to keep watch over them.

Considerable delay was met with in getting started for the hotel because of the fact that the crowd of at least 1,000 persons refused to leave the corridors of the criminal courts building.

The jury will take up the case between 3:30 and 4 p. m.

Predicts Acquittal.

New York, Oct 24 —Police Lieutenant Becker today predicted his acquittal by the jury that has heard the evidence in his trial for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

"I do not believe there is a possibility of being convicted. If I am, there is no such thing as justice." Becker said

The defendant was awake early in The Tombs and before Justice Goff convened court to charge the jury, Becker was visited by Attorneys McIntyre and Hart, who have been conducting his case. He told the lawyers he had no worry for himself, but he feared the effect of the trial's strain upon his wife.

Becker's lawyers announced, in advance of the appearance of Justice Goff, that they had demanded instructions calling for a verdict for murder in the first degree or for acquittal. Justice Goff, during the night, went over 147 requests to charge presented by the defense. He got little sleep, but looked fresh when he reached the criminal courts building.

A large crowd gathered about the courthouse and struggled with policemen to get into the court-room to hear Justice Goff charge the jury.

Attorneys, who have been following the case, declared that Becker ought to know his fate before night, but admitted that the outcome would depend largely upon Justice Goff's instructions to the jury.

Much To Do With Results.

The court's interpretation of the law would have much to do with the conviction or acquittal of the accused, they said.

In no great murder trial of the past has there been so much uncertainty as to the outcome! Lawyers who have figured in many famous murder trials shook their heads when asked as to the probable verdict in the Becker case, and frankly confessed that they could find nothing on which to venture a prediction.

One prominent attorney experienced in murder trials, said:

"'A disagreement is probable; conviction possible; acquittal impossible."

The most perfectly poised person in the court-room was Mrs. Becker, wife of the accused. She smiled hopefully at her husband as she paused on her way to her seat to shake hands with Lieutenant John Becker, a brother of the defendant.

Becker was more carefully dressed than at any time since the trial began, as he was brought into court. He looked nonchalantly around the room and smiled into his wife's eyes.

The jury had been in their seats nearly thirty minutes before Justice Goff, accompanied by his bodyguard, Police Captain Tierney, arrived at the courthouse. Justice Goff began his charge to the jury at 10:50 o'clock and concluded at 1:30 p. m.

HILLES FIRES A BROADSIDE

More Unfair than Free Trade.

As the leader of your party you must have knowledge of these extraordinary tariff bills, which, by a practically unanimous Democratic vote, were passed through the house of representatives. These bills cut down and wiped out duties without their authors knowing what they were doing. The sweeping reductions would have torn down at once what had been patiently and carefully built up during many years. Finished articles, requiring highly skilled labor, were hastily put on the free list. and this, in many cases, even when the necessary materials for making them were left dutiable.

For example, in the Democratic bill revising the metal schedule, machine tools were placed on the free list, while the steel from which such tools are made was left dutiable. Typewriters and cash registers were placed on the free list. Printing presses, sewing machines, and other finished articles, were made free of duty at a blow. Cotton ties, spikes, nuts, washers, cut tacks, horseshoes, various kinds of nails, many kinds of wire, and other similar articles were slammed on the free list. But the steel and other materials from which such articles must be made, were left subject to duty. Could anything be more unfair and disastrous to the industries and workers all over the country engaged in making the articles thus suddenly deprived of all protection? Thousands of small industries were thus forced without warning right up to the very brink of free trade. It would have been, in fact, even harder and more unfair than general free trade would be.

Danger of All Workers.

What can the workers of these industries think of these unfair attacks on them? What must the workers in any industry or occupation think? If they know the facts they must believe that, in the event of Democratic success, the product of their labor may at any moment be hastily placed on the free list, no matter whether the materials they use are or remain dutiable or not, and no matter how much skill and care the production of their output may require. If nails and machine tools can be at once put on the free list, without regard to the material or to any other business situation, anything else can be treated in the same way. Cotton or woolen cloth or garments of any kind can be at once put on the free list. Cutlery, watches, shovels, files, automobiles, any manufactured article or any product of farm, forest or factory, can at once be placed on the free list. This is the prospect of free trade or worse than free trade that the workers must and do face.

This threatened injury would be bad enough at any period. It is doubly dangerous now. For at this time competition from the advanced nations of Europe for the American markets is becoming keener every year. And an even greater danger to our industrial welfare is looming up. The great awakening of the Japanese and Chinese peoples, accustomed to the cheapest living, is bound to bring most serious additional competition from Asia.

Under the encouragement of our protective tariff we have obtained a great industrial development and progress Our standard of living has been raised and kept high, and we have become a happy, prosperous and superior people. Under the able administration of President Taft, we have emerged from a condition of panic and depression, and have come into a period of remarkable prosperity. Is it any wonder that our people are uneasy at any danger of losing this advantageous situation? Is it any wonder that more than ever before they feel the need of carefully guarding the protective duties? Only in this way can they hope to maintain their present strong position against the aggressive skill of Europeans and the almost barbarous cheapness and low living conditions of Asiatics.

Tearing Down Duties In Dark.

In the face of this situation any man can see how ruinous it would be to reduce or wipe out duties without adequate information of the business situation to be affected thereby. This information involves a study of the competition from all over the world. President Taft has been the first to establish a non-partisan commission to get adequate information about production and trade as a guide for tariff revision. This is the business-like way in which to handle this business question, and the common sense of our people recognizes that it is the only fair and just way.

Yet your party, through control of the house of representatives, has cut short the work of the tariff board by denying the necessary appropriations. Your party will not permit the collection of the information without which changes of tariff rates must be made in ignorance of their affect. Your party in the house of representatives would not permit the board established by President Taft to continue, and would not provide or establish any sort of commission or body of men, even of their own selection, to investigate and report, either to the president or the house of representatives, the facts and figures of the industrial affairs affected by the tariff bills they were rapidly and heedlessly passing. They set their faces heedlessly against the receipt of intelligence. They would not heed the facts presented by the tariff board established by President Taft, nor would they make any attempt to get the facts themselves.

A False Sense of Security.

In your public declarations you are seeking to assure the business men and workers in all fields of industry that they should have no fear that the tariff duties would be lowered too abruptly or too much if you and your party should be successful at the coming election. And yet you know very well that if elected you are in honor bound to use all the influence of the presidential office to secure the destructive tariff legislation officially endorsed by your party. Practically all the advocates of your cause join in the effort to lull the people into a feeling of security in the face of your candidacy and the record of your party. It would be harsh to call this effort a conspiracy against the confidence of the people. Yet this policy is trifling with the people in a dangerous way.

Where Does Wilson Stand?

There is a strong public demand that this trifling should now cease. The people know that the tariff fundamentally underlies business success and progress all over the country. They want to know clearly and definitely just where you stand in this critical matter and how you propose to deal with it. They have a right to know this. Their living depends on it. If you can not or will not speak plainly, you must be plainly told that vague and smooth generalities will not satisfy the public. The gentle softness of well-poised academic language means nothing and excites suspicion. The tariff is a business question and it is action upon it that counts for good or evil.

Fortunately for the country the Democratic party in the house of representatives could not get their will enacted into law. What saved the industries of the American people from the destruction threatened by the Democratic bills? Simply and solely the courage and clear-headed, good sense of President Taft, backed up by a Republican senate President Taft did his utmost to induce his partisan opponents to pass fair bills He asked them to wait for and examine the facts collected by the commission he had set to work. He labored and builded patiently for the prosperity of the country, and he would not permit that prosperity to be wrecked by the faults and blunders of the Democratic party as long as he could prevent it.

He considered it his duty to prevent it, and did it manfully. For this he has not had all the consideration that is his due. He has really not yet had a square deal in this matter from our business men and workers, whose interests he has so faithfully conserved. But there is now a growing recognition of the greatness of his services in promoting and protecting our prosperity. This prosperity has grown to such great proportions and promises such benefits in the immediate future that the American people will surely vote to give President Taft a second term in the White House.

Yours truly,
Charles D. Hilles, Chairman.

PROMINENT MEN FACE A SERIOUS CHARGE

Six Men Near Norwalk Indicted for Tarring a Girl.

Norwalk O., Oct. 24.—Six prominent Clarksfield township men have been indicted by the grandjury for tarring pretty eighteen-year-old Minnie Lavalle several weeks ago.

The girl was reported to have been tarred by wives, who accused the girl of misconduct with their husbands.

The indictments were kept secret until today, pending the arrest of the men. The girl excited pity as she told her story to the grand jury. She said she was walking along the road near her home in the evening, when she was seized by the men and carried to a barn, where a crowd awaited with a tar pot.

At first the girl thought some in the crowd were women, but later decided they were men, masquerading in women's clothes she told the jurors.

CHICAGO.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Wheat suffered price recessions of ⅝@¾. this morning on the declines of ½ to ⅝c. at Liverpool and the increased offerings there from Argentina and other exporting countries. Little attention was given the Balkan affair on either side of the water. While northwestern and Winnipeg receipts were considerably smaller than a week ago, they exceeded those of a year ago at Minneapolis and Duluth, but they were somewhat lighter than a year ago at Winnipeg

Corn was ¼@⅜c. lower today on the weakness in foreign markets and the promise for increased shipments from Argentina.

Oats were ¼@⅜c. lower and slow.

Hogs were 5 to 10c. higher at the yards and, while the opening was firm, there was a weaker feeling later.

Opening: Wheat—May, 97⅞; December, 93⅜.

Corn—May, 52½; December, 53⅜ to ¼.

Oats—May, 34½; December, 32½@⅝.

Pork—January, 19.25.

Lard—May, 10.45; January, 10.95 to 10.92.

Ribs—January, 10.30.

While there was a slight reaction from the bottom prices during the last half hour of the day's session, wheat closed with losses of ½@1c. and the volume of trade was moderate. Armour was a buyer around the bottom prices. This was the potent bullish help of the day. The seaboard reported twenty-five boatloads as taken for export, and 15,000 bushels were sold at Chicago to carriers.

Corn closed with losses of ¼@⅜c., and oats were off ⅛@¼c. Cash sales of corn were 155,000 bushels and of oats 135,000 bushels.

Hog products were a shade lower all around.

MRS. FLORA M'FADEN IS SEEKING DIVORCE

Charges Husband with Failure To Provide.

AN INJUNCTION IS GRANTED BY COURT

Defendant Is Restrained from Interfering with Plaintiff or Drawing Money from Bank—Some Matters of Interest in the Court of Common Pleas.

Tuesday afternoon, Flora F. McFaden nee Ulsh, brought an action for a divorce from Edward A McFaden, a cement worker. The McFadens were married at Covington, Kentucky, September 6, 1911.

The plaintiff charges her husband with failure to provide for her, "except that soon after the said marriage he bought for plaintiff one pair of shoes." She says he cursed and swore at her and threatened her with personal violence; that she was compelled to maintain him, although he is "a sturdy stalwart man aged about forty years," and that her child by a former marriage was compelled to leave home on account of his abuse.

Of late, according to the plaintiff, the defendant "has commenced to work and accumulated $70," which he deposited in the Marion Savings bank. The plaintiff says she has her own furniture and clothing at No. 735 east Center street, and Judge William E. Scofield granted a temporary injunction restraining him from interfering or molesting the plaintiff or from drawing his money out of the bank. She asks for a decree of divorce and restoration to her former name of Bird, she having been divorced from Frederick Bird on the ground of three years' wilful absence, March 1, 1901.

In the appeal matter of Louise Wilson against Jane Robinson, Judge William E. Scofield, Wednesday granted the defendant leave to file an answer and cross-petition by November 16.

In the divorce suit of Mary J. Dorfe against Charles E. Dorfe, the defendant, through Mouser & Moloney, filed an answer setting up a general denial, Wednesday morning.

A suit on account was begun in the common pleas court, Wednesday, by John G. McNamarra, who seeks to recover judgment against Charles S. and Susan Bartram in the sum of $102.05, with interest from November 22, 1912. The plaintiff is a physician residing at Green Camp.

The plaintiff in the suit of George W. Salter against Emily C. Mayfield and others, Wednesday, through Attorney Louis E. Myers, filed a reply to the answer of Elmer G. Mayfield. He especially denies that Elmer G. Mayfield made payment to the plaintiff for work and labor and material furnished in the digging of a ditch.

JAMES HAUGHT IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Passes Away at the Wark Home Wednesday Morning.

James Haught, aged seventy-nine years and eleven months, died from the infirmities of age at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Wark, No. 1001 east Church street, Wednesday at 6 30 o'clock. He had been confined to his bed only since last Monday night.

Mr Haught was a native of Geneva, Pennsylvania, having been born there November 23. 1832. He was the youngest of a large family, his mother having died in his infancy. He was a glassblower by occupation, and moved to Marion from Findlay four years ago.

In 1854, the deceased was married to Miss Fidelia Bliss, of Kent, who died at the Wark home last March. Two children survive. They are Mrs. Wark, of Marion, and Dr. G. B. Haught, of Columbus.

The funeral services were held at the Wark home, Thursday evening at 7 30 o'clock. The remains were shipped to Kent, where interment were made Friday morning.

DELIGHTFUL PARTY AT THE BROWN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Brown Are Host and Hostess.

A delightful party was given, Monday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Brown, of the Boulevard. The hours from 8 to 10 were spent playing progressive euchre, and at the close of the series the prizes were awarded to Mrs. Elwood Dankle and Mr. Enos Wachter.

After the cards had been laid aside a ghost appeared and ushered the guests to the attic, which was transformed to represent a forest scene. Here an old witch served bouillion from a kettle and another served cider from an old-fashioned well. Still another told the fortunes of the guests, after which the ghosts appeared and led the way to a large table in the forest where all were seated and an appropriate Halloween luncheon was served. The remainder of the evening was given to the enjoyment of music.

The out-of-town guests were Mr and Mrs Enos Wachter, Mr. and Mrs. Wood Dankle, Miss Minnie Gerber and Miss Mayme Edleman, all of Delaware.

THOUSANDS DRAWN TO SCENE OF BIG FIRE

Tank of 250 Barrels of Crude Oil Burns Friday Night.

THE BLAZING OIL ILLUMINATES THE SKY

Firemen Give Their Attention To Protecting Surrounding Property as It Is Impossible To Subdue the Oil Blaze—The Heavy Rain Helps in the Protection of Property.

The destruction of a tank of 250 barrels of crude petroleum near the Erie roundhouse, Friday night, caused many people in the city to believe that the entire West End of the city was being destroyed by fire. The burning oil caused flames to shoot high in the air and the sky was beautifully lighted by the blaze, which threatened to do much damage at one time.

The fire started while the car was standing at one side of the roundhouse and the oil was being transferred from the car tank to a house tank. As near as could be learned by Chief McFarland, the flowing oil became ignited from a workman's torch and the flames ran to the head of the car tank. The car was quickly moved from its position at the roundhouse to a point about 100 feet east and away from cars. Here the tank of oil was surrendered to the flames. Two other tanks of oil at the roundhouse are said to have been ignited, but the blaze was extinguished, the tanks being tightly closed.

About 7:30 o'clock, the alarm was turned in to the departments from box, No. 29, located at the roundhouse. The departments made a hurried response to the call, but there was little to be done, except to hold down the blaze as much as possible and protect the surrounding property. The hard rain which fell during the day and while the fire was in progress was a great benefit, and probably kept the fire from spreading to cars in the vicinity. The firemen labored about two hours, while several thousand people braved the rain and received a good drenching by going to the fire as a result of the early report that the roundhouse was being destroyed. But few regretted the trip, however, as it was a rare sight, and most of the crowd remained until all of the oil had burned from the tank.

CHARLES NECOMB IS ALLOWED TO REGISTER

Man Who Fights for Country Becomes a Citizen.

Charles Necomb, of Bryant street, a Democrat, seventy-nine years old, who Friday, was denied the privilege of registering because he was born in England, was allowed to register on instructions from Charles M. Tobin chief of the Marion county board of elections. Chief Tobin took his action upon being legally advised that it was not necessary for Mr. Necomb to have naturalization papers when he held papers showing that he had been honorably discharged from the army.

"The fact that a man served in the civil war after coming to this country makes him a naturalized citizen without further ceremony," was the legal advice given to the board of elections.

MRS. ERNEST COOPER COMMITS SUICIDE

Drinks an Ounce of Carbolic Acid Friday Morning.

BABE FOUND CRYING AT MOTHER'S SIDE

Domestic Trouble Is Given as the Cause for Unfortunate Woman Taking Her Life—Husband Fails To Provide a Home for His Wife and Child—The Funeral Services.

Mrs Ernest Cooper, twenty-two years old, committed suicide by drinking an ounce of carbolic acid at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. L. W. Columber on Clinton street, Friday morning shortly after 4 o'clock. She was unhappy and disappointed because her nineteen-year-old husband had not procured a home for her so they could go to housekeeping.

Mrs. Cooper swallowed the poison about 4 o'clock. She emitted a terrible scream and her sister-in-law and brother-in-law, with whom she was staying, hurried to her bedside. They found her writhing in agony, with her one-year-old babe, Leona, sitting in the bed and crying.

"I am dying," is all the unhappy woman said. An empty bottle near the bed told the story. She was dead before a physician arrived.

Coroner W. H. Hinklin, who arrived at the Columber home half an hour after Mrs. Cooper swallowed the acid, was well acquainted with the dead woman's family. He said that unhappiness over domestic troubles undoubtedly caused her to take her life.

The young husband is employed by the Marion Steam Shovel company. He saw his wife Wednesday evening, when a quarrel is declared to have occurred. Mrs. Cooper came to Marion October 12, from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs Theodore Adams, at Mt. Victory. She expected soon to go to housekeeping, and when her husband failed to provide her a home she became despondent. She told no one of her intention to committ suicide, however.

Thursday morning, Mrs. Cooper left the Columber home and, with her babe, said she was going to Prospect to visit relatives. She returned about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. She did not eat supper, saying she was not hungry, and retired about 8:30 o'clock.

The suicide was handsome and in excellent health. She was married to Ernest Cooper, son of the late W. D. Cooper, at Mt. Victory, about a year ago.

The bottle, which had contained the carbolic acid, bore a Strayer drug store label. An investigation of the poison register at the store, Friday morning, showed that an ounce of carbolic acid had been sold to Mrs. Cooper, October 17. She said she wanted it for household purposes. Her actions did not excite the suspicion of W. B. Strayer, who sold it to her.

The suicide was well known at La Rue and Mt. Victory as Miss Gay Adams. Besides her parents she is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Charles Adams, residing near La Rue; William Aadms, of North Dakota; Warner Adams, of Indiana; Mrs Nellie Conaway, of McGuffey, Hardin County, Mrs. May Johnston, of Muncie, Indiana; Mrs Esta McAdams, of Bellefontaine, and Mrs Dollie Golden, of Akron.

The remains were shipped to Mt. Victory, where the funeral services were held.

RECEPTION IS GIVEN FOR DR. GEORGE A. SCOTT

A Pleasant Affair at Epworth M. E. Church.

A LARGE COMPANY ENJOYS AN EVENING

Pastor and Members of Family Are on Receiving Line with Leading Members of the Church—A Brief Program Is Rendered and a Buffet Luncheon Is Served.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Epworth M. E. church held a reception in the basement of the church, Thursday evening, for the new pastor, Dr. George A. Scott, and his family. About 250 were present, and the affair was one of the most enjoyable of the kind ever held in the church.

The room was brightly decorated with asparagus and salvia, spray of the red and green being caught from the chandeliers and about the walls, and bouquets of it adorned the refreshment table.

In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Scott and daughter, Helen, Mrs. David Rexroth, Mrs. H. G. Shumaker; Mrs T. J. McMurray, J. E. Waddell, E. C. Smith, George P. von Stein, John H. Clark and J. J. Crawley. After greeting the pastor and his family the large company spent the time informally. Greetings were exchanged with friends and acquaintances and strangers were made welcome.

Dr. Henry A. Hartman, superintendent of the local public schools, presided and welcomed the pastor to this charge. Dr. Scott then gave a short talk and was followed by Rev. J. C. Guenther, pastor of the German M. E. church; Rev. D. N. Kelly, pastor of the Wesley M. E. church, and Rev. L. C. Webster, who made a few remarks.

A buffet luncheon was served. Mrs. A. M. Crane, Mrs. B. L. Wallace, Mrs. Earl T. Smart and Miss Ada Monnette poured coffee, and were assisted in serving by Mrs. J. S. Kilbury, Mrs. John H. Bain and Mrs. J. E. Sifritt.

THE PATHETIC DEATH OF THE OLD ELEPHANT

A Little Incident in Burmah, Told by Mrs. H. H. Votaw.

Mrs. H. H. Votaw, nee Carrie Harding, writing home from Burmah, relates a pathetic story of animal life that is worth putting in type. It is as follows:

"Nearby us, in a big lumber yard, lived 'Old Tusky,' the most perfect specimen of the elephant I have ever seen. He was a grand beast, with the most perfect tusks you ever saw. He was a giant, too. I always had an eye for him as I passed his shelter, and grew very attached to him, which will account for my sorrow over his death.

"Two of our mission workers went to take his photograph one morning, and found him down. He was very ill, and his feet were so bad he could not work. It looked like a fatal case, and in a few days he died. He was perfectly conscious to the last, and about a half hour before he died he lost his eyesight. So long as he could see his keeper, he seemed satisfied and content, but when he could no longer behold him whom he loved, he was painfully restless and uneasy, and began feeling about with his trunk in all directions. Noticing this unhappy state, his keeper stepped near, asked him what he wanted, and that grand, old beast just reached out and folded his trunk about the keeper, drew the human master close to him, and held him there, tenderly, till he died. It was a very tender scene to all, and the keeper cried like a child."

TWO MARION MEN ARE MAKING A LONG TOUR

L. H. Felty and F. M. Beverly Reach Jacksonville.

The Messers L. H. Felty and F. M. Beverly, of Marion, Ohio, are in the city, having just arrived from their home town in an E-M-F automobile. They were on the road for three weeks, stopping at a great many places, camping out, fishing and having a good time generally. They came by way of Cleveland, O., Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Rochester, Albany and New York City, says the Metropolis, of Jacksonville, Florida.

They also visited Philadelphia, Gettysburg, Lynchburg, Augusta, Savannah and several other places. They will spend the winter in Florida and make a complete tour of the state in their auto. Both of these gentlemen have been to Florida before and as soon as the weather began to get a little cold in their home section, had a longing to get to the "Sunny Land of Opportunity" as soon as possible.

They will leave for Tampa tomorrow morning, remaining there a few days and will then go as far south as possible in their car, and it is highly possible that they will go to Havana while on this trip. Both gentlemen report a most pleasant trip and say they had no trouble with their car on the long journey. Their E-M-F stood the hard running beautifully and they will take it wherever they go. Mr. Beverly and Mr. Felty are great lovers of fishing and expect some real sport in that line before the winter is over.

VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR BUT IS DENIED VOTE

Charles Necomb Carries His Case to Probate Judge.

MUST BE NATURALIZED IN ORDER TO REGISTER

Such Is the Ruling of the Registrars. Mr. Necomb Serves All Through the Civil War and Is Always Allowed To Vote in the Past. Ruling May Be Asked in the Case.

A heart-broken little old man appeared in the court of Probate Judge William S. Spencer Friday morning.

"Judge," said the venerable man with a trembling voice, as he seated himself. "Judge, I came to this country from England and fought for the stars and stripes all through the civil war. I was honorably discharged, and here you see my papers. Ever since the war I have been voting, but now they won't let me vote. They won't let me register because I have no naturalization papers.

Judge Spencer's visitor was Charles Necomb, who lives at 1144 Bryant street. He is seventy-nine years old. He is a democrat.

Friday, when Mr. Necomb went into his precinct polling place in the courthouse, where he has voted for many years, the registration officials would not allow him to register. Mr. Necomb told the officials that he was born in England and came to the United States when he was in his twenties. When the war broke out he enlisted for three years, and after his enlistment expired he re-enlisted for three more years.

"I've always voted," pleaded the aged man. "I fought through the war and for that reason I have always been allowed to vote."

But, under the registration law, naturalization papers are required of all foreign-born electors, he was told and the registration officials would not allow him to register.

Judge Spencer promised to take his case up. Secretary of State Graves may be asked for a ruling. If Mr. Newcomb has to have naturalization papers before he may register, he can not get them now before next December, and he wants to vote at this election.

A Wrong Impression.

The sale of pike bonds was held up by reason of the commission's failure to report sooner.

With reference to the jail, the grand jurors said that their inspection of it indicated efficiency on the part of the sheriff relative to all prescribed rules, but they were of the opinion that immediate provisions should be made to afford the inmates an abundance of light and decided improvements as to ventilation. They further urged modern system of sanitation. The grand jurors closed their report by expressing sincere appreciation of the assistance rendered them throughout their deliberations by Prosecuting Attorney Justice. Judge Scofield thanked them for diligence and took occasion also to compliment the prosecutor, whose second term will expire early in January.

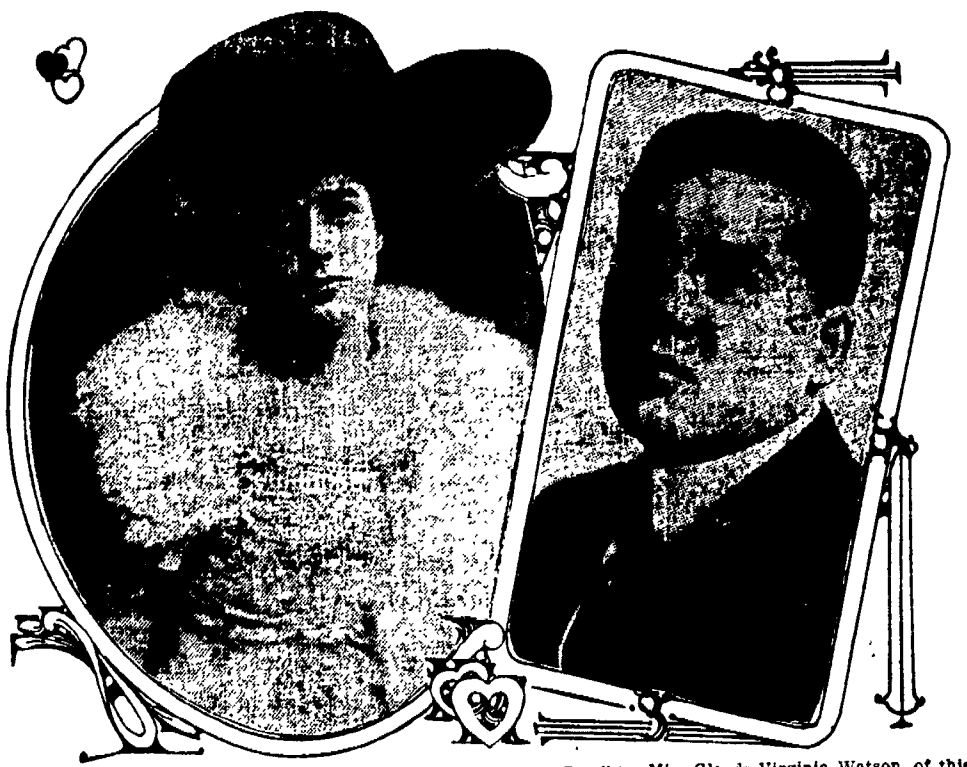
HEIR TO $30,000,000 IS ENGAGED TO THE SWEETHEART OF HIS CHILDHOOD DAYS



The engagement of William Zeigler, Jr., "The $30,000,000 Boy," to Miss Glayds Virginia Watson, of this city has been announced, and the friends of the young people are already speculating as to the future of the two. For the adopted son of the late William Zeigler, patron of Arctic exploration and "Baking Powder King," has been known to sing "The Gay White Way" in his own musical comedy, and also "I'm a Simple Maiden." He has also been heard by his friends to express the opinion that somebody with plenty of money should go in for uncovering the sites and relics of ancient civilization in Mexico and Peru. Again, they have an idea that he might, gladdened by the success of his musical comedy, "Royalty in Distress," take up the life of an "angel" on Broadway. With it all, he has been known to say that his tastes are simple and studious, but his favorite diversion is yachting On the other hand, Miss Watson has been educated at the Fitch School for Girls, where socialism plays quite a part in the curriculum, and students there have been known to express very decided ideas as to what should be done with large fortunes. JIM AND DUCHESS DO TURKEY TROT Socially, East is East and West is West, which is as much to say that Fifth avenue and Broadway, in spite of Madison square, never meet But it needed the exception to prove the impact, and both Broadway and Fifth avenue are smiling at the story that the exception had been accomplished by the Duchess of Sutherland on the one hand and James Buchanan Brady, better known as "Diamond Jim," on the other. I happened in the Hotel Ritz, where the Duchess was giving a farewell dinner to a few friends in a private dining-room. The strains of ragtime music coming through the closed doors of an adjoining ball room attracted the Dutchess, so that she began swaying in her chair in perfect time with the music, and finally went into the ball-room, where she was introduced to Diamond Jim by Foxhall Keene, and immediately consented to turkey trot with the diamond-bedecked gambler.

A FIRE FOLLOWS THE BURGLARY OF STORE

Lawler Brothers Suffer a Very Heavy Loss Sunday Night.

BUILDING IS SAVED BUT STOCK IS RUINED

Thief Escapes Before the Fire Is Discovered—Burglar Held Responsible for the Blaze—J. M. Quay, of St. James, Reports Burglary of His Store to Local Police.

Fire of an unknown origin followed a burglary at the grocery store of Lawler brothers, on Mary street, at 11 o'clock Sunday night, causing a loss of not less than $1,000. The fire had gained good headway before being discovered. The alarm brought out the two departments. When the firemen arrived, the small frame structure was filled with smoke, and the blaze was spreading over the interior. Water was thrown into the store and the fire was extinguished before much damage was done to the building, but the stock is almost a complete loss from fire, smoke and water.

When the departments reached the scene the side door of the store was found unlocked. Further investigation by Chief McFarland revealed that the shutters of a back window had been opened, and one of the panes of glass broken out, this allowing the window to be raised and entrance gained to the store. The cash register had been relieved of the change it had contained, and there were indications that the safe had been trifled with. Whether the store had been set on fire to cover up the burglary or whether the blaze started from a match carelessly thrown down by the burglar could not be determined. The loss is covered by insurance.

J M Quay, who runs the general store at St. James, reported to the police, Monday morning, that his store was entered by burglars, Sunday night, and asked the local officers to be on the lookout for stolen property How entrance to the store was gained could not be learned by the proprietor, it being his opinion that a skeleton key was used. The thieves secured a number of razors, some underwear, sweaters, gloves, a pipe, some tobacco and about $10 in change that had been left in the various money drawers throughout the store.

A son of John Imbody, of Cherry street, reported to the police, Sunday, that his bicycle was stolen from in front of the Epworth M. E. church during the morning services. He furnished the police a description of the wheel and a search is being made for the stolen property.

Chicken thieves visited the coop of Anthony McAndrews, who resides at the corner of Ballentine avenue and Quarry street, and stole fifteen of his choice fowls, Saturday night. Entrance to the coop was gained by tearing off some of the boards on the alley side, but the thieves were considerate enough to leave a large number of the chickens, probably having all they could carry. The theft was reported to the police with the hope that the guilty party or parties might be caught.

Cecil Lawler, a pretty-faced girl of tender years, was taken to Hotel Marion, Sunday night, and furnished a place to stay. The girl was taken in charge by the officers at the union station. After questioning her the officers had reason to believe that she was under the jurisdiction of the probate judge of Pickaway county.

As the girl was mixed in a rather shady police occurrence several weeks ago, she was ordered to appear before Chief McDonough at 8 o'clock Monday. She reported to the chief, and was turned over to S N Titus, an officer of the local probate court. Judge Spencer communicated with the probate judge at Circleville, and it was learned that she was under probation from that court. OBITUARIES.

Ruhlman—John William Ruhlman was born in York county, Pennsylvania, February 19, 1830. In his early childhood his parents moved to North Lima, Mahoning county. In 1853 he came to Richland county, locating near Lexington. After his marriage he resided three miles north of Johnsville until 1867, when with his family he moved to Marion county, Richland township, where he resided until his death which occurred in the afternoon of October 11. He dropped dead from apoplexy, while on his way to mail a letter near the home of his niece, Miss Elizabeth Haldeman in Morrow county, where he and his wife had gone to spend a number of weeks visiting, and near where he finished his apprenticeship as a shoemaker, and where he had lived for thirteen years. His age was eighty-two years, seven months and twenty-two days. December 25, 1854, he was joined in marriage with Elizabeth Cook, to which union four sons were born: George H, of Cardington; Lewis O., of Claridon; Elias E., of Marion, and Charles W., of Amanda, all of whom, with his widow, eight grandchildren and one brother survive. He became a Christian when twenty-two years old and identified himself with the Emanuel congregation of the Evangelical church near where he resided. After moving to Marion county he transferred his membership to the Salem church of which he was a faithful and honored member until called to join the church triumphant. He filled various positions of trust in those years. He was blessed with the talent of singing which he used to the great edification of many in the services of the sanctuary. He was a good man and respected by all who knew him. He will be greatly missed not only in the home, but also in the church and in the community. The funeral services conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. A Hensel, were held in the Salem church near Beach, Sunday afternoon attended by a large congregation. Interment was made in cemetery near by.

Hunter—Henry J. Hunter, son of Jesse D. and Sarah H. Hunter, was born at Lancaster, Fairfield county, July, 1840, and died October 9, 1912, aged seventy-two years, three months and seven days. In his youth he moved with his parents to Marseilles, near where he resided until eleven years ago, when he came to Marion county. He leaves two brothers and one sister, Charles Hunter, of Marion; Reece Hunter, of Toledo; and Mrs. Fannie Hildreth, of Exeter, Nebraska. At the age of twenty-two he enrolled as a volunteer in A company, 123rd regiment and served three years, and April 3, 1865, he received an honorable discharge. As we stand beside this fallen soldier we recall the glorious aspirations that thrilled men's souls in that heroic time, when to love one's country was to lay down one's life. He endured all the hardships and privation of the common soldier He spent 100 days in a starving and suffering condition in one of the southern prisons and returned home with health gone. After a few years he was sadly afflicted; the result of long weary months and days, spent in army life. The real history, the heroism displayed by one who has given his faithful service to his country, never has been and never can be written.

One by one the ranks of soldiers of '61 are thinning. A few remain. Can we today forget their gallant service. Only a little while longer will they need our loving care and thanks, for death is breaking fast their ranks. God bless the men, living or dead, who followed the flag. The cause for which they fought can never be assailed again.

To Help in Revival.—Rev. J. W. Miles, pastor of the United Brethern church, left Monday for Hillsboro, where he will assist Rev. George Geiger in revival services in that city for the next ten days. Rev. Mr. Miles' pulpit will be occupied next Sunday by Rev. E M. Burroungs, of Marion.

ROAMS COLUMBUS TWO DAYS AND NIGHTS

Charles Exline Is Searching for Missing Wife.

INDIGNANT BECAUSE POLICE ARE IGNORANT

Officers Are Not Properly Informed as to Description of Woman Given by Her Anxious Husband—People in Columbus Story Are Not Very Well Known in This City.

The Ohio State Journal, Monday, contains a story of a little local interest. The Charles Exline, referred to, has been in the city for the past two weeks and has been engaged in repairing carpet sweepers. He is known by a number of persons with whom he has been engaged. The story is as follows:

Charles Exline, 133 south State street, Marion, a bicycle repairman, walked Columbus' streets all day Saturday and Saturday night and yesterday and last night in a vain search for his wife, Mabel Exline, aged nineteen.

The young woman left their home at 501 Lexington avenue, Columbus, two weeks ago, to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bushnell DeLong, near Conesville. Within a few days her husband moved to Marion. His wife, he says, was to go there last Friday passing through Columbus en route. She left Conesville as scheduled and came to Columbus where she called at a North High street store shortly before noon Friday. Since then, Mr. Exline says, he has had no trace of her.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Exline, who is staying with friends at 941 north Fourth street, reported her disappearance to the Columbus police. Seven hours later he was back at police headquarters, highly distressed and weary. Last night he again called for news at headquarters. He became highly indignant during the night, when, in questioning police officers on their districts, he was unable to find one who had a report of the disappearance or who had been notified by headquarters to be on the lookout for the young woman. He personally furnished her description to the policemen, as follows: Height, four feet, eight inches; weight, 109 pounds; complexion, dark; hair brown; dress, old rose color; shoes, tan oxfords.

CHARLES NECOMB IS DENIED REGISTRATION

Board of Elections Refuses To Give Him Franchise.

Notwithstanding the fact that the board of elections was legally advised to register Charles Necomb, of Bryant street, seventy-nine years old, an Englishman, who fought throughout the civil war, the registration officials of his precinct declined to allow him to register, Saturday night. They took the ground that the registration laws plainly stated that a foreign-born soldier's honorable discharge will take the place of his declaration of intention, but that he must appear before the proper authorities and be formally naturalized. Thus the old man is barred from voting on a technicality, and he says he will never be naturalized, if he has to go into court to do so.

BASIL RIDGWAY ON ROOSEVELT ATTITUDE

Prominent Bull Mooser Turns from the Path.

NOT IN ACCORD WITH THE ROOSEVELT VIEWS

Is Thoroughly in Earnest as to Betterment of Country, but Is Unable To Swallow All of the Roosevelt Theories—Changes Mind and Is Now for Taft.

The following interesting contribution on Bull Moosing appears in the current issue of the La Rue News:

During the past few weeks, I have been urged by a number of people to state my position relative to the presidential nominees. In order to make my position clear to everybody, I will explain my attitude, past and present, in this campaign:

At the primary election last spring I voted for Roosevelt delegates to the state and national conventions. Roosevelt I preferred as the Republican nominee for president to succeed Taft. When he was defeated at the Chicago convention I was as sore as any partisan in this community. When Roosevelt first started his new party I was more than satisfied to follow his leadership and consequently aligned myself with the Progressive party, as it is termed.

As the campaign proceeded, Roosevelt grew in my estimation as a great national leader and he continued to maintain this position in my mind until the last few weeks. Now a change has been wrought in my mind regarding Roosevelt and I accept this opportunity of declaring that no longer do I believe in the attitude he is assuming at present in the campaign he is making for the presidency.

In his many addresses in various parts of the country he appears to assume that he has a cure-all remedy for every subject who voluntarily complains that he is distressed as a result of the present manner of conducting our national government. Roosevelt, instead of maintaining a position as a middle-of-the-road conservative on all great questions of government, has recently departed from his old-time attitude as a thorough-going statesman and become one of the most radical of advocates of socialistic principles of government. He actually demands that our prevailing form of government be changed, and advocates that our nation should at once adopt a direct form of government, an attitude that is alarming to all people who favor the simon-pure form of constitutional government, such as our forefathers provided for us and which has cause this nation to reach the highest pinnacle of success and maintain its position as the most civilized, the most prosperous and the grandest country in the entire world. I am in deep sympathy with all attempts to inaugurate substantial reforms in our system of government, and I am ready to labor and to vote for such changes in our form of government as will provide the best means for advancing the interests of the greatest number of our citizens, regardless of the section of country they inhabit.

I am a progressive in thought and in action, as regards real citizenship, but I am opposed to the radical reforms of that class of agitators who have accomplished so little in the ranks of everyday citizenship. I dot not believe that our system of government is radically wrong, just because a few wild-eyed agitators have declared that our laws must be changed in a hurry or else the country will go to immediate destruction. I am mindful of the fact that many of these radical reforms are urged by agitators who are aspirants for office and it occurs to me that not so much is wrong with our people and our form of government as with our scareheaded politicians. I believe in maintaining the advanced position of American citizenship and its high standard of living. I believe in a protective tariff that will protect such standard of citizenship and its made of living.

We are enjoying right now a country-wide prosperity—our farmers are prosperous and happy and rural development is going along at a pace never before observed in this or any other country in the wide world; our laborers are employed at better wages and there are more jobs open to job-seekers than ever known before in the history of this or any other country; every line of industry is operating at its fullest capacity, and more luxuries are being enjoyed by all classes right now than at any other period in our country's history; every factor of our citizenship should feel prouder of the fact that he is an American citizen than he has had occasion to manifest at any other time in the history of our country. Why then should I allow myself to be carried away by the assertions of a lot of office-seeking agitators that times can be made better, when they claim the very foundation of our present prosperity and happiness should be wrecked and thrown into the junk pile of worn-out methods? I for one have made up my mind to vote for sane principles of government; for the continued prosperity of the nation; for the poorest politician in the country—William Howard Taft—for president of the United States for a second term.

PREACHING FIRST.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for October 27 Is "Wanderings in Decapolis." Mark 7:13—8:10.

At today's breakfast table we read last night's noble speeches delivered a thousand miles away. We are used to this and expect it. We want the things and events of the world served hot like our breakfast coffee. Our times are so accustomed to these wonders that we take forgranted all the marvelous enginry of propoganda. It is difficult to throw our imaginations back to the time before there were newspapers and tidings could only travel as fast as a man or beast could move. It is profitable to muse for a moment on how men got their views before the people in the days when the printing press had not been invented. Specifically, consider the problem that confronted Jesus in publishing His good news to mankind.

We think in terms of express trains; He had to go afoot or at best on the back of a donkey, a horse or a camel. The primitiveness of the life that Jesus led is incomprehensible to us. Most men today in our land do not know what it is to become physically tired from a day's walking. That was a common experience of the foot-sore Teacher who went about His little group of pupils from village to village, from city to city. True, He had time to observe closely and to think deeply but His progress was slow. It took Him longer to go from Capernaum to Jerusalem than it takes us to cross the continent.

Striking for the Cities.

The quickest and surest way of reaching all the people is to advertise in the daily press. Jesus could not do this; He had to carry His message by word of mouth. There were no great dailies circulating in those wonderful cities of the trans-Jordan region where Greek civilization flourished so richly. A certain circle of ten cities was called the Decapolis. Jesus could not be content to live within reach of these without bearing to their forums the word that was life. What we would give for some of His wayside conversations, or the sermons that He preached to these cultivated crowds, or the miracles that He wrought amid them! Instead, we have only a fleeting glimpse.

Anybody but a classical student finds it hard to credit the advanced state of civilization that had been attained east of Palestine in these great cities. I have seen for myself the wonderful ruins of temples and theaters and palaces. After two thousand years the grandure of the ruins stirs the imagination. I have in my desk at the moment a quantity of ancient Roman and Greek coins that I gathered in one of the cities of the Decapolis, visible reminders of the civilization that reigned here. It is in one of those trans-Jordan cities that the occasional traveler who penetrates so far may see the wonderful mosaic of Jerusalem which has helped scholars in determining the geography of the city. The culture of Greece and Rome found a home in the Decapolis.

Ever a strategist, Jesus was appealed to by these flourishing cities. He faced the problem which we rashly think is peculiar to our own day, that of carrying the gospel to the great city. Possibly this study of an old passages will help to awaken some of our modern churches out of their parochial ideals and help them to work together in terms of the whole city.

Now a Railway Route.

The traveler of today goes by railway from Damascus down through the region of the Decapolis, skirting the lower end of the Lake as he strikes west to Haifa. Still, as of yore, the land is fertile, a granary on a wide region. The Druses and the Arabs cultivate it, although robbery, oppression and ignorance keep them in poverty and squalor. Spectacular valleys, lovely waterfalls and rich gardens brighten the journey through this region. The Mecca railway also passes through the Decapolis territory.

The swift-moving traveler pictures in his mind the patient Master toiling over this country and in imagination is stirred to a desire for the utilization of all the modern agencies for the swift spread of the story. The gospel which then traveled in the heart of Christ has fired the brains of a new civilization so that today that same story may be carried with romantic swiftness all over the earth.

Railways may come and customs may change, but people are people the world around. The mothers with their sore-eyed children whom I saw by the railway were not very different from the mothers who waited for the help and healing of this wonderful Teacher. The helplessness and need of the little ones appealed to all the loving instincts of the Good Shepherd who was always so tender with the little lambs. As He traveled Jesus served.

Helping as You Go.

"Carry as you go," is a maxim of efficiency taught to the young housekeeper. It suggests the greater injunction of the Savior Himself, "As you go preach...heal." We need not wait until we get to a destination in order to do effective ministry. Life's waysides are in reality a life goal. Jesus ministered as He traveled. Anybody with a passion for helpfulness will find the world full of opportunities. This Sunday school lesson is one for the everydayness of life. While on the way of our everyday work we are to serve all the lives that we can reach.

The attention attracted to Jesus by His work of healing is especially explicable to those who know the East. In this very region there are a few missionary doctors, like Dr. Mary Eddy, who have a widespread reputation as hakims. From far and near the people come with their ailments seeking succor.

Amid this thronging human need Jesus went ministering. He was not so busing seeing the sights of the wonderful Greek cities that He had not time for the poor and miserable and outcast. He ministered to people because He loved them and wanted to help them; and also because His ministry interpreted His message. In the needed healing the word of love could be read.

Chambers of Silence.

Sensational beyond all men was this humble, gentle Nazarene. Not in the cheap, petty, self seeking fashion of the occasional pulpiter, but seeking to focus men's eyes upon Himself. As we see, He set people to thinking and to talking about great deeds and great words and their significance. His words created a sensation. When Dr. Charles Lewis, of China, removed a huge goitre from a peasant woman's neck and face, and sent her back to her native village, she was at first rejected as being a different woman entirely. In this fashion the healing and helpfulness of Christ set the countryside by the ears and gave the insatiable Greeks something new to talk about.

A deaf and dumb man was brought to Jesus. Nobody understood quite what could be done for him, but they quickly learned the wise habit of taking problems to Jesus. The friends of the afflicted one did not understand that he was dumb because he was deaf, and that if his ears could be opened his lips would be unsealed. Most dumbness is due to deafness. With fine symbolism, Jesus made him to hear and thus taught him to speak. Using some signs to strengthen the man's faith the Savior spoke the word true to all with muffled ears, "Ephatha, that is be opened." The miracle set men to marveling, and the story could not be kept from the world. The common opinion found voice in the words, "He hath done all things well: He maketh even the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak."

The teaching lies on the surface that the spiritual dullness of men's preceptions is being removed by Christ. He is making men to hear, and, hearing, to speak. Even as there are sounds in the physical world beyond the range of the human ear, so there are notes in the spirit realm to which Christ attunes the hearts of those who come to Him for healing. The new world of sound in which he who had so recently been deaf found himself was no more wonderful than the choice music of life to which the redeemed spirit is introduced.

The Shared Meal.

One other event is chronicled in this lesson, that of the feeding of the four thousand. It is like the miracle recently studied of the feeding of the five thousand, yet with important points of difference. The message is the same, illustrating the responsibility of them that have for those that have not. "We that are strong ought also to bear the burdens of the weak." The simple fact of a man's need gave him a claim upon Christ. His hunger brought him within the range of the miraculous ministry of the Master.

Underlying many teachings in this story lies the timely truth that those who are Christ's cannot be indifferent to human need. Our powers are for the world's service. We that have cannot escape an obligation to those who have not. Even as Jesus went up and down the land that we call holy, pouring out His soul in ministry, so His disciples must move among men as helpers in all the wide range of needs that burden life.

COMMISSIONERS GET A COMMUNICATION

Relief Is Asked in the Present School Situation.

COMPLAINT AS TO THE ACCOMMODATIONS

People Petition the Commissioners To Give Them a Hearing at Which the Petty Bickerings of the Board of Education Can Be Laid Aside and Something Accomplished.

Tuesday afternoon the county commissioners received the following self-explanatory communication:

"Marion, O., October 22, 1912.

"To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners of Marion County, State of Ohio:

"Gentlemen—The undersigned beg leave to advise you that the board of education of the city of Marion, state of Ohio, has for a long time failed and now fails to provide the school district known as the central school district, in said city of Marion, Ohio, an equitable share of school advantages as required by law, and also has failed and now fails to provide suitable schoolhouses for said school district under the control of said board; and we further advise your honorable board that by reason of said failure on the part of said board of education as above set forth a great number of children, seven, eight and nine years of age have been transferred from said Central school, the one in which they rightfully beyond and to which they have a right to go to school, to several outlying districts, thereby being compelled to travel a much greater distance, some of them several times the distance from home to the Central building, to and from school and into and through territory not familiar, and some of it dangerous, to them.

"Notwithstanding all the members of said board of education, when consulted individually, agree with us that this congested condition can with little trouble be relieved, said board is divided into two factions and anything suggested by one faction for the relief of said condition is opposed by the other faction with seeming deregard for the welfare of these children and of the schools.

"Wherefore, we pray your honorable board to grant us a hearing at which the whims and petty quarrels of the school board will be relegated to the background, and further pray that your honorable board perform any and all such duties and acts as said board of education should do and should have long since done to the end that said children so transferred as aforesaid may receive that to which under the laws of Ohio and as children of residents of said central school district they are entitled.

No plans have been discussed for adoption as yet, but a movement has been inaugurated for a modern temple building for both Kosciusko Lodge, No. 58, and Wayside Lodge, No. 864. This movement is receiving encouragement from Odd Fellows generally, and, to the end that some definite understanding may be reached by the members of Kosciusko Lodge, next Monday night's meeting will be turned over to a full discussion of the project.

If the proposed erection of a new temple meets with the approval of the lodge, then the building committee, composed of John S. Kilbury, Frank Schaffner and Benjamin F. Waples, will be authorized to act in conjunction with a committee appointed by Wayside lodge, and to employ an architect.

While no plans for the proposed temple have been discussed, it is said that the temple, if erected, will be one of the handsomest in Ohio.

Kosciusko lodge owns the third floor of the Odd Fellows block on north Main street, and it is said that the lodge can sell this at a good price at any time, and put the money into the new temple fund. However, until after the meeting next Monday night, nothing definitely will be known with regard to the matter, as the sentiment of the lodge has not been fully expressed.

At Monday night's meeting of Kosciusko lodge, the first degree was conferred on one candidate, and arrangements completed for a full discussion of the temple project next Monday night.

MRS. HARRY H. BOND IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Plaintiff Is Given Custody of Little Daughter.

DEFENDANT GIVEN CHARGE OF YOUNG SON

Mrs. Charles E. Dorfe Begins an Action for a Divorce in the Court of Common Pleas—The Cost of the Last Grand Jury Sessions. Common Pleas Court Items.

Ada May Bond was granted a decree of divorce from Harry H. Bond, an Erie switchman, by Judge William E. Scofield, Monday afternoon, on the ground of gross neglect of duty. Several letters, alleged to have been written to the defendant, were introduced in evidence. They were read by the judge and passed back to the plaintiff's counsel, H. Emund Hill, without comment.

Judge Scofield gave the plaintiff custody of the two-year-old daughter, and gave the defendant custody of the five-year-old son, who was already in his father's custody. The plaintiff was awarded $12 a month alimony.

The Bonds were married in this city, September 24, 1904. The wife started her action for a divorce, March 29, 1912. It was uncontested. She charged her husband with extreme cruelty and immoral conduct with a Marion woman.

Alleging failure to provide and abandonment, Mary J. Dorfe, through Attorney L. E. Myers, brought an action for a divorce from Charles E. Dorfe, a barber, in the court of common pleas, Tuesday morning.

The Dorfes were married in this city, August 24, 1907. The plaintiff charges the defendant with squandering his earnings by riotous living and by drinking excessively. She asks that a temporary injunction restraining the defendant from disposing of a one-sixth interest in sixty-five acres of land in Morrow county he granted, the land, she claims, being inherited by her from her father, Nathaniel Smith.

The October grand jury, which reported to Judge William E. Scofield, Monday, cost the county $284.20. The twelve grand jurors, for six days' service, received $182.90, and the sum of $101.30 was paid out in witness fees.

Tuesday afternoon, in the court of common pleas, the transcript in the suit of V. Gordon Stair against the Marion Department company was filed. The plaintiff seeks to recover the sum of $87.50. He claims that he turned his household goods over to the defendant to pack for shipment and that some rugs were never delivered. In the court of Justice Charles E. Gompf, from whose docket the case is appealed, a finding was entered for the defendant company.

Breaks His Leg—Paul, aged about three years, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Probst, of south Main street, fell while playing in the house, Sunday evening, and broke his left leg about midway between the knee and hip. The little fellow was playing in the dining-room when the accident occurred, and was unable to tell his parents how it happened. He suffered considerable pain, but cooly requested them to send for a surgeon, as he had hurt his leg.

"WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL ME IT WAS LOADED?"

TO PRESERVE TREES ABOUT COURTHOUSE

Members of Grand Jury Submit Recommendations.

With a view to preserving the large sycamore trees which shade the esplanade of the courthouse, the members of the grand jury, following the adjournment of that body, called on the county commissioners as individuals and suggested a good plan for prolonging the life of the trees.

The members of the grand jury, having the beauty of the place at heart, suggested that the commissioners prohibit the tacking of bills or notices of any kind on the trees, and that the police booth be removed from near the tree on the southwest corner, and no permission be granted to rest sign boards against the trees. In past years, it has been customary to tack legal notices and all sorts of advertising on the trees, the result being the trunks are filled with tacks and nails. To further the protection to the trees it was suggested that iron fences be constructed around them. The suggestions will probably be acted on by the commissioners.

MISS REXROTH LEAVES FOR THE MISSION FIELD

E. church as a missionary to Northern India, left Marion, Tuesday afternoon, for Baltimore, where she will attend a general executive meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society, in session in that city. From there she will go to Philadelphia and sail on the American liner, "Merion," November 9, for Liverpool. From there she will take a steamer enroute for Bombay. Miss Rexroth expects to locate at North Lucknow, in the northern part of India, where she will teach in a Methodist mission school. She will be gone five years.

Miss Rexroth attended the Cincinnati Missionary training school last year, preparing herself as a missionary. She has always been active in the local church.

A TRIO ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF FIGHTING

George Money, H. A. Down and John Durr in Trouble.

A PEACEMAKER IS TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Explains Circumstances of a Fight and Is Released—A Thief Steals a Pipe from Desk at the Police Station—Is Caught and Pipe Is Recovered—Some Police Notes.

George Money, H. A. Down and John Durr were arrested, shortly after 9 o'clock Monday night, by Officer Goldsberry, and taken to police headquarters where a charge of fighting was placed against them. According to the story of eye-witnesses, Money and Durr came to blows, and when Down tried to act as peacemaker, Money struck him. After being taken to headquarters, the fellows each put up $10 for their appearances later. Money appeared, next morning, and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of fighting. He was fined five dollars and costs.

As a result of trying to act as a peacemaker in a fight between his brother and a stranger, Frank Sheridan was arrested in the West End, Monday evening, by Officer Chapman. The two men who did the fighting boarded a freight when the officer approached, and Sheridan was taken as one of the fighters. The fellow objected to being arrested, but was landed in the city prison. After explaining the circumstances, he was released by the mayor without a hearing.

A hobo who has been employed in one of the street improvement jobs called at the police station, Monday afternoon, to see a friend who had been locked up for intoxication. While in police headquarters, and left alone for a minute, he stole a pipe from the desk of Captain A. L. Bond. Chief McDonough was informed of the theft by a fellow who witnessed it and the thief was arrested. The pipe was recovered, and the fellow was ordered out of the city.

The chicken house of Mrs. Ella Logan, on north State street, was visited by a thief, Monday night, and two of her fattest chickens and a duck were stolen. Street Commissioner George Blum, who resides on Bellevue avenue, at the rear of the Logan home, heard the thief and ran out and fired two shots at the fellow. The thief calmly inquired of Mr. Blum as to what he was trying to do and walked away.

The police received a call from Nevada, Monday night, requesting them to be on the lookout for a rig that was stolen at that place, Monday evening. The rig was the property of John Graham, and was taken while he and his son were attending a show. Graham described the animal as being a bay mare weighing about 1,300 pounds and having a white spot on its head. The buggy had red running-gears, a black bed and well worn cushions. Two robes and two overcoats were in the vehicle.

In baking fish, lay the fish first on a piece of clean greased cotton cloth, then lay it in the pan. It can be lifted out easily when done.

JACOB SCHOENLAUB DIES THURSDAY

Last Mexican War Veteran in Marion County.

DEATH COMES AT HIS HOME IN THE COUNTRY

Mr. Schoenlaub Is a Remarkable Citizen—Known and Held in the Highest Regard by Many Thousands—Leaves a Family of Grown Children—The Funeral.

By the death of Jacob Schoenlaub, eighty-two years, Thursday morning about 6 o'clock, Marion county loses its last survivor of the Mexican war of 1846-7, and one of its best and highly-respected citizens. He died at his home on the Richland pike, three and one-half miles south of the city.

About 5:30 o'clock, Mr. Schoenlaub asked for a drink of water. An hour later, when a daughter returned to his bedside, she found him dead. He had passed away without a struggle, after having retired in his usual health. Death was due to the infirmities of age.

For many years Mr. Schoenalub had been made much over on Decoration days. He always attended the exercises, and he was always awarded the highest seat of honor because he had been one of the few men who left the county and joined the sixty or seventy Ohio companies that participated in the Mexican war. He was hale and hearty for his age, and of exceptionally bright mentality. He was a remarkable old man, and his death will be learned with profound sorrow by thousands who knew him.

The funeral services will be held at the late residence, Sunday at 12 o'clock, and at the Emanuel Lutheran church at 1 o'clock. The services will be in charge of Rev. S. H. Mollenaurer, assisted by Rev. J. W. Schillinger.

An honor squad, composed of the members of Cooper Post, G. A. R., will attend the funeral, and a section of the church will be reserved for the civil war veterans. Interment will be made in the Marion cemetery.

History of Veteran.

Jacob Schoenlaub was born in Germany, March 5, 1830. He was the son of Christopher and Phoebe Schoenlaub, who emigrated to the United States in 1833, settling in Marion county and entering eighty acres of land. They both died in 1842, the father, aged fifty-one, and the mother, aged fifty years.

When only seventeen years of age, Jacob Schoenlaub enlisted in the Mexican war, having been a member of B company, Fourth regiment, Ohio volunteer infantry. He remained in the service of Uncle Sam as a soldier until the Mexican war's close.

During the greater part of the time Mr Schoenlaub was in the war, he was under the direction of General Winfield Scott. Honorably discharged, he received for his valiant services a "land warrant," which, in 1851, he exchanged for fifty acres of land in this county, this land being located in the southeastern part of the county.

Father of Nine Children.

In 1851, Mr. Schoenlaub was married to Miss Mary Dorothy Dietsch, daughter of Michael Dietsch. To this union were born nine children, those now living being Jacob J. Schoenlaub, who has served two terms as county treasurer; Mrs. George Fetter, Henry and David Schoenlaub, of Marion, and Misses Kate and Emma, who lived with their aged father.

Those deceased are Mrs. George Heineman, twin sister of Mrs. George Fetter; John Schoenlaub, who died in young manhood, and George Schoenlaub, who died several years ago. Mrs. Schoenlaub died in 1900.

Mr. Schoenlaub's first vote was cast for General Winfield Scott, his old Mexican war commander, and ever since then he had voted the Democratic ticket. He s
